Are Included in List.

Jobs for 10,149 men in Georgia on 135 public works projects to cost $3,696,780 were assured last night by announcement from Washington of presidential approval of a $3,696,780 allotment for work sanctioned by the Public Works Administration in this state.

As news of the official approval in Washington came to J. Johnston Johnston, state director of PWA in Georgia, the entire force of the Atlanta headquarters cleared desks to expedite work and permit the Georgia communities to start work as soon as practicable.

"We are delighted," said Mr. Johnston. "The program for Georgia has been approved right down to the penny, just as we presented it to them."

Final Approval Certain.

The allotments still must be approved by the comptroller general, but at local headquarters it was pointed out this would be just a formality.

Grants totaling $2,981,962 were made to cover 45 per cent of the cost of all projects. Loans totaling $704,818 were made for 61 of the 135 projects.

The projects cover all forms of public improvements, new schools, jails, waterworks, extensions, public buildings and other lasting forms of development, which have been planned in the cities, towns and counties, but which were delayed until the government advanced the funds making the work possible.

Within a few months the thousands of workmen will be off the relief rolls, assured of steady jobs for considerable periods.

List of Projects.

The list of approved projects is given herewith. In each instance the name of the city or county in which the project is located is given first. This is followed by the type of work to be done, amount of loan, amount of grant and estimated cost of project, with the number of men to be put to work. In cases where one figure is omitted, it is the amount of loan, many of the projects being financed solely by federal grant and local funds.

Roosevelt's Special Escapes Air Crash

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Gene Redwell, Phoenix, Ariz., newspaperman, was seriously hurt when his airplane crashed near the town of Boulder, where he was on a special train of President Roosevelt here today.

Redwell had just taken off and was only about 60 feet in the air when his motor failed. The ship caught fire but he managed to extricate himself.

F. D. R. Car Turns On Precipice Edge

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his special train an hour late tonight after a hazardous experience in which his car was forced to turn around on the edge of a mountain precipice.

The incident made everyone in the party hold their breaths and undoubtedly gave Mr. Roosevelt somewhat of a thrill before the turn around was finally made.

It all happened when Senator Pittman, of Nevada, driving with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, suggested a tour of a new road up the side of Mt. Charleston, 20 miles away. The highway developed to be a one-way road with no place to turn around.

After about ten miles of this a sign

President Says Spending Has "Let Out Clutch" and Job Responsibility
Now Is Up to Business.

BOULDER DAM, Nev., Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt dedicated Boulder Canyon dam today, called the giant structure a symbol of useful government work and declared private industry "must bear the principal responsibility of keeping the processes of greater employment moving forward with accelerated speed."

The President's address at the 726-foot high structure followed the theme of the government undertaking to "throw the clutch to start the wheels of what we call private industry."

"Labor makes wealth," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The use of materials makes wealth. To employ workers and materials when private employment has failed is to translate into great national possessions the energy that otherwise would be wasted."

"Boulder dam is a splendid symbol. The mighty waters of the Colorado were running unused to the sea. Today we translate them into a great national possession."

Dam Points Way.

"I might go further and suggest to you that we begin to use such works as this as a means of making useful other national possessions. . . . It is a simple fact that government spending is already beginning to show definite signs of its effect on consumer spending; that the putting of people to work by the government has put the private employment machine into motion; and that in two years and a half we have come to the point where private industry must bear the principal responsibility of keeping the processes of greater employment moving forward with accelerated speed."

Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, who presided at the ceremonies, gave major credit for the mammoth structure to United States Senator Hiram Johnson, of California. He sponsored the project in congress.

"Johnson" Dam Suggested.

"It has been well said that if this dam should bear the name of any living person, then it should be christened Johnson dam," Ickes said.

"I may say, however, that Senator Johnson shares the belief this great engineering achievement should not carry the name of any living man, but on the contrary, should be baptized with a designation as bold and characteristic and imagination-stirring as the dam itself."

The name was changed to Boulder dam after having previously been named for former President Hoover.

President Roosevelt, as he gazed over the stone parapet on top of the highest dam ever constructed, declared "I'm speechless."

The presidential party spent half the night here.

Unpopular Laws.

Capital Roberts was understood to have been asked if any policemen were ever given orders to overlook law violations in some cases.

It was reported that the captain announced that he would not.

Coast Slicks Up For Roosevelt

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—California is strong on annual festivals. There's a cherry-picking festival, followed by cranberry festival, and a be-kind-to-asparagus week. And, of course, there's Mother's Day coming, as it should, in the spring. And Father's Day, which likewise is appropriately placed, at the height of the raspberry season.

But now we're having two special big celebrations—President's Day here Tuesday and President's Day again on Wednesday at San Diego. So we're slicking up the old boiler shirt and shaving the back of the native son's neck to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Too bad our distinguished guests can't be two places at once, for while they'll visit the loveliest exposition ever held anywhere, yet they'll miss seeing Detroit take the opening World Series game. (Loud cries of "You're crazy" from the general direction of Chicago, Ill.)

But then again, they'll still be viewing the great open spaces, such as General Hugh Johnson, who's here to speak a piece.

Sounded Keynote--Killed Proposal for Roosevelt-Talmadge Debate--To Head Committee

Speaker E. D. Rivers of the Georgia house of representatives is shown above as he sounded the keynote at the house session. Above is the special resolutions committee of the unofficial house session which yesterday killed a resolution calling for a joint debate between the President and Governor Talmadge. Seated from left to right are Representatives Lindsay, Howard, Allen, chairman, Thompson and Grayson. Standing are Representatives Griffin, Henderson, Milam, Sutton, Deal, Coleman, Head and Hammock. House Meeting Kills Resolution For Roosevelt-Talmadge Debate

Representatives, in Session,
Voice Confidence in President;
Join in Welcome.

Unanimously killing in committee a resolution sponsored by Talmadge supporters, calling for a joint debate between President Roosevelt and the Governor, the house of representatives in a special unofficial session here yesterday with Speaker E. D. Rivers at the helm voted its "supreme confidence" in the President, and amid cheers, authorized the appointment of a committee to work with the Georgia delegation in congress in welcoming the President and his family to the state.

Only one member of the resolutions committee signed the joint debate resolution. Representative Henderson, of Irwin county. After signing the resolution he then joined with the committee in voting to kill it.

The house voted, at the request of a number of members of the state senate present, to attend a session of the senate to its 10 from the house, to work with the congressional delegation.

Seek Block of Seats.

The house also voted to name a committee of three to arrange for seats in a body at the Roosevelt homecoming. Pike Cook, chairman of the Roosevelt homecoming celebration committee on arrangements, had appeared before the house at the request of Speaker Rivers and in his talk to the members assured them the committee in charge would provide reserved seats for the legislature.

Another resolution calling for participation by house members in the scores of motorcycles being organized all over the state was approved. This resolution provides that in cities and towns where a motorcycle parade is being held already the house members shall join in working with them and in the counties where no movement has yet been made the members shall be launched by the representatives.

One hundred and forty-eight of the 205 members of the house were present for the call of the roll. In addition a number sent regrets and informing

Many Witnesses Called.

Among the witnesses who appeared in the police probe were B. Graham West, city comptroller; Captain S. J. Roberts, of the police department; and Howard W. M. (Buck) Weaver, E. S. Acree, former vice squad head; E. C. Stegall, former policeman convicted of murder; Oran Dodd, well-known Atlanta wholesale beer dealer who was recently acquitted of murder; Walter Jones, who told the jury he was in the whisky business; and Howard W. M. (Buck) Weaver, of 313 Central avenue, who testified in the Dodd murder trial.

It was understood the committee would question witnesses who were made some time ago against Oscar Pendley, former secretary to Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant. Barrow was said to have asked West whether Newton county authorities ever paid the board bill of a woman who was held for Newton officers by city police.

The woman, who was the sweetheart of Ralph Jones, the first man to escape from Atlanta's new escape-proof jail, was named by members of the committee as having received special and exceptional favors from Pendley, who has recently been demoted by the chief.

Talmadge, Linder Speak at Fair; Thousands Inspect Exhibits, Shows

With all its exhibits, side shows and the midway running in full swing, thousands were attracted to Lakewood yesterday to see the color and magnificence of the complete list of attractions of the Southeastern Fair.

They saw the thrilling tractor races. They gaped at "Happy Jack" Clark as he fell thousands of feet in parachute. They heard Governor Talmadge and Tom Linder, commissioner of agriculture, speak in the Cotton States Exposition building. Miss Elizabeth Hull, "Miss Florida," and her court of beauties, reigned.

Moreover, they saw a great parade of 142 motor cars, headed by the governor, Mayor Key and fair officials, wind its way like a giant snake through the gate, between exhibition buildings and along the midway. An unprecedented size and color, the grandstand attractions, oddities, shows and the midway made them laugh, stare, gape and wonder.

Tennessee Day.

Crowds queuing that of yesterday and Sunday, when 87,000 persons streamed through the gates, are expected by officials to come this morning, Tennessee Day, for the judging of poultry, live stock and agricultural exhibits, and to hear an address by Arthur Walsh, deputy administrator for the Better Housing Administration.

As yesterday, there will be the great fireworks display, races, rodeos, George Hamid's presentations at the grandstand, Catherine Behney's Winter Garden Revue, California Frank's Wild West show and the Hopi Indian village. Tractor races, featuring Ab Jenkins and Ole Hunt, will be staged at 2:30 o'clock.

Jim Lindsey starred last night in that mighty drama, "The Taming of the West."

He tamed those Oklahoma City Indians 9 to 2 to bring the Atlanta Crackers all square with the Indians in the second game of the Dixie series at Ponce de Leon park last night.

Jim Lindsey struck out ten of those Indians. Ten of them bit the dust. "Pound 'Em" Paul Easterling, struck out four times. Lindsey pitched to him just 12 times in those four strike outs.

Only Seven Hits.

It really was the fifth consecutive strike-out of Paul Easterling by Jim Lindsey. Lindsey had 11 straight victories and he struck out Easterling for the last out in the eleventh inning. They may come along with more heart than Jim Lindsey but to date no one has. He's got it out there on the hill. And he's got a head and a good assortment of stuff.

His control was not so good—seriously it wasn't—but all that he allowed only seven scattered hits. The Crackers got 11.

The game, so far as the Indians were concerned, a great disappointment. They started the best pitcher in the Texas league, Red Evans, who had won 14 games. And the Crackers drove him out of there in the fourth inning. Two more pitchers came along and the Crackers roughed them all considerably.

When Red Evans blew up like an oil gusher coming in, the Indians blew up also. They made nine errors last night in a great comedy of errors. They seemed stunned by the Cracker attack which had blasted Red Evans off the field.

And when they tried to start an offense there was great old Jim Lindsey striking them blind.

And so, the Crackers leave this morning for Oklahoma City with the zeros at one all. They resume there Wednesday night at 8 o'clock with Bobby Durham scheduled to face Jack Brillheart, the southpaw, in the third game of the series.

Three-Day Death Toll Shows Need Of Concerted Action for Safety

Strouss, Motor Club Secretary, Supporting Constitution Fight on Accidents.

Twenty-one thousand, four hundred and ninety people have met violent death in automobile accidents on the streets and highways of America since January 1, last.

Three have died in the environs of Atlanta within the past three days. Daily the story of fearful death in its most awful form comes in from all sections of the state over the news wires.

And daily, by mail, telephone and by personal call, Atlanta and Georgia automobile drivers are volunteering in the campaign of the Safety Council of the Constitution to reduce this frightful toll, to stop the dedication of the state to the death of men, women and children by an enemy that takes more lives and leaves more wounded than did the World War itself.

Strouss Praises Campaign.

One of the latest and most important volunteer workers in the Safety Driving campaign was Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club. Mr. Strouss writes endorsing the campaign and its operation in highest terms and at the same time points out that the next few months are, according to past experience, the worst of the year for traffic fatalities.

This fact, coupled with the companion fact that daily thousands of school children are using the streets and highways going to and from between their homes and the schools of the state, makes the campaign even more important now than it would be at any other time of the year, in Mr. Strouss' opinion.

A supply of pledge blanks and stickers, which each signer is urged to put on the windshield and rear window of his car, has been printed and the motor club and autoists who find it convenient may sign their pledges and secure their stickers at the club offices at 336 West Peachtree street.

Pledge signers who mail them in to The Constitution must enclose stamped, addressed envelopes so their stickers may be sent by return mail.

Scores of Letters Received.

Scores of letters of indorsement have been received from individual motorists, while heads of large concerns operating fleets of trucks as well as with many personally owned cars among their employee personnel, have sent in motion the proper machinery for securing the safe driving pledge 100 per cent for their organizations.

Valuable suggestion was contained in a letter from C. A. Freiwelt, of 80 Twelfth street, N. E., Atlanta, enclosing his own signed pledge. He suggests that the State Motor Vehicle Department have printed on each envelope containing automobile license a resume of the important points in the driving laws of the state, together with pictures and explanation of the three principal hand signals—Stop, Right and Left.

Pelham Merchant Adds.

M. W. Turner, of the M. W. Turner Hardware Company, of Pelham, Ga., has, on his request, been sent a supply of pledges and stickers which he has undertaken to distribute among the motorists of his town.

At the same time Mr. Turner offers a valuable suggestion to prominent businessmen and civic leaders in all cities and towns of the state. Any who will undertake to obtain the signed pledges and to see that the stickers are placed upon the pledge-signers cars in their own town, will be furnished a number of pledge blanks and stickers they need, simply by writing the Safety Council of the Constitution.

W. R. Powell, of Indian Springs, Ga., points out that one of the greatest menaces on the highways today is the driver who does not change his headlights from driving to passing range when meeting another car. He also refers in unflattering terms to the "one-eyed car," the automobile with only one headlight burning and suggests that, while asking all drivers to be careful, the police should force the "fellow who doesn't give a damn," to have proper lights and to drive safely.

Mr. Powell has been driving an automobile since 1902, for 33 years, and is yet to have his first accident of any kind or to get his first police ticket for traffic violation. In explaining his own remarkable record Mr. Powell says he always makes it

Geneva Points Out Difficulty of Sending Squadron of Aerial Observers to Frontiers of Lion of Judah and Mussolini.

LEAGUE TO SUBMIT PLANS TO NATIONS

Italy and Ethiopia May Be Asked To Cease Concentration of Military Forces on African Front

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—League of Nations peacemakers went to work today on a new series of recommendations for settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian conflict, realizing all the while their plan may be knocked in the head by the first shell in East Africa.

League experts, aside from drafting a history of the dispute, drafted today the headlines of a peace plan which, after unanimous adoption by the council, would be submitted to Italy and Ethiopia.

Today's information indicated the new plan will be even less favorable to Italy than the project of the "Big Five" committee which Premier Mussolini turned down, at least in the sense it will be less specific and less calculated to weaken the sovereignty of Ethiopia.

Something may be inserted, it also was intimated, to recommend the two nations cease their concentration of military forces.

In addition, the plan may embody the suggestion of Sir Samuel Hoare, the British foreign secretary, for a world conference aimed at securing a more equitable distribution of the world's raw materials.

U. S. Might Attend.

Should such a conference materialize, it was indicated, the United States would be invited.

League officials pointed out the project—requested by Emperor Haile Selassie—for the sending of a squadron of air observers to the East African frontiers seemed increasingly difficult of fulfillment.

They said there were no landing fields except those controlled by Italy. The Ethiopian tribesmen might regard the airplanes as League military assistance to Ethiopia instead of neutral observation planes, and that the League air patrol might conceivably get into difficulties with the Italian army or air force.

Should war break out before the League peace plan is submitted, League officials thought an emergency session of the League council would be called to determine what to do.

Possible Activities.

They anticipated the following possible sequence of activities:

1. The council would endeavor to detect the aggressor.
2. It would decide in principle on

Brothers Win Control of 3-Billion Unit With $3- 121,000; Banks Take Loss.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Van Swearingen brothers, of Cleveland, seized control of their $3,000,000 railroad empire off a public auction block today with high bids for the majority interest in Allegheny Corporation, their key holding company, out of a total outstanding of about 4,150,000 shares.

Two other substantial blocks of miscellaneous securities, not needed by the brothers to control their 28,000 miles of rails, were bid in by Hallgarten & Co., New York investment house, evidently as an investment or a speculation.

No other railroad interest or important group of capitalists bid against the Van Swearingens for control of their lines.

Associates of O. P. and M. J. Van Swearingen, in buying in their essential securities, were closed for the first time as G. A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., industrialist, and G. A. Tomlinson, Cleveland ship operator, who had been buying in the Mid-America Corporation last week, which bid in the key securities.

Following the auction, O. P. Van Swearingen issued the following statement:

Mid-America Corporation is composed of friends and associates of O. P. and M. J. Van Swearingen, among them G. A. Ball, of Muncie, Ind., and G. A. Tomlinson, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Ball is a capitalist and manufacturer and Mr. Tomlinson is an operator of several fleets on the Great Lakes under the title of Tomlinson Lines.

Mr. Van Swearingen declined further comment on his victory.

The total of the bids for all the securities amounted to $4,703,000, indicating a large loss to the syndicate. The sale was in default of notes and accrued interest amounting to approximately $500,000. The largest part of the loan was understood to have been extended by J. P. Morgan & Company, although the amounts their colleagues they would not be able to be present, assured Speaker Rivers and the house full cooperation in the movement to join in honoring the President.

Few Talmadge Supporters.

A number of Talmadge supporters, including Representative H. B. (Heli Bent) Edwards, of Lowndes county, Representative J. Wesley Culpepper, of Fayette county; Representative A. A. Marshall, of Macon county; Representative P. G. Campbell, of Newton county; Representative T. V. Williams, of Coffee county, answered the call of the roll but from the outset of the meeting it was plain the Roosevelt supporters were in the vast majority.

Representative Williams objected to unanimous approval of the organization resolution which later was to kill the proposed joint debate plan, but was voted down.

There was no mention of the Governor by name in the meeting. Several speakers, including Speaker Rivers, George Goode, who appeared on behalf of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Representative Marion Allen, of Baldwin county, and others referred to the Governor's opposition to the President indirectly but made no direct reference to the state's chief executive's activities.

Declaring "you know and I know there are some democrats who ought to be republicans," Speaker Rivers in a ringing Roosevelt speech himself sounded the keynote for the meeting.

Battle Lines Drawn.

The speaker of the house, a warm Roosevelt supporter personally, said the battle lines for the campaign of 1936 are already drawn and that the issue is clear cut.

"It will be the people on one side and wealth on the other," he declared, "There is a fine line of demarcation. Men and women will have to be on one side or the other, those who are working for the cause of humanity on one side and those working for continued concentration of the other."

Speaker Rivers declared 90 per cent of the members of the house are supporting Roosevelt.

He recited the measures adopted by the house in the recent general assembly session which were designed to aid the program of the President, some of which were killed in the senate and some vetoed by the Governor.

"At the very outset of our session we passed a resolution pledging full cooperation with the President," he asserted. "We are not here to lambast anybody today but we are here to add to the power and glory of the greatest humanitarian who ever led this nation, President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Shouts Approval.

With this the house membership rose to its feet and shouted its approval. Representative Alonzo Woods, of Emanuel county, shouted, "Hurrah for Ed Rivers for Governor," but the speaker warned against any demonstration for or against either the President and the personal tribute to him went no further, although Representative Paul Lindsay, of DeKalb county, at the close of the meeting, offered an oral resolution thanking the speaker for calling the session and commending him for his activity in supporting the President. It was adopted without a dissenting vote.

"The house passed a measure which provided for the people to vote on elements of the President's security program, including the old age pension plan," Speaker Rivers continued. "The people were denied the right to vote on it. We also passed legislation providing for the removal of owner-occupied homes but this was killed. We also passed a number of bills sent down to us from Washington and requested by the Roosevelt administration but these later were killed on us too."

The speaker concluded by declaring he believed Georgia would vote for the re-nomination of President Roosevelt by overwhelming majorities.

To Decorate Highway.

Mr. Cocke was warmly greeted by the house and thanked the body for its cooperation. His assurance that the members would be given ready seats in Grant field for the homecoming celebration and the President's speech likewise brought cheers. Mr. Goode praised the President for his labor record and also lauded the President, Mrs. J. R. Terrell, the mother of two members of the house, Representatives Terrell, of DeKalb county, and Terrell, of Warren county, spoke briefly on her activities on the Franklin D. Roosevelt highway. Later Representative Ralph Ramsey of Fulton county, sponsored a resolution calling for the decoration of the highway in the President's homecoming. It named Mrs. Terrell in charge of the decoration and received unanimous approval.

Representative Allen made a speech in which he praised the record of President Roosevelt and warmly lauded Speaker Rivers for his support of the President and his participation in the homecoming.

Representative Allen served as chairman of the resolutions committee and is expected to be named chairman of the committee to co-operate with the Georgia delegation.

"Everyone who has known me long knows how I have pleaded with the house of representatives time and again for adequate appropriations for our state institutions at Milledgeville, at Alto and elsewhere," Mr. Allen said. "Franklin D. Roosevelt has done everything in the down-trodden man that he could possibly do. He has done the things for the nation that I have always wanted done for Georgia. I'm sorry Georgia does not have a man like Franklin D. Roosevelt so that our state could do these things."

Predicts Victory.
The Baldwin county representative predicted an overwhelming victory for the President next year.

Serving on the committee with him were Representative Head, of Calhoun county, committee secretary, and Representative Lindsay, of DeKalb county; Howard, of Chatham county; Thompson, of Muscogee county; Grayson, of Chatham county; Griffin, of DeKalb county; Henderson, of Irwin county; Milam, of Spalding county; Sutton, of Wilkes county; Deal, of Bulloch county; Coleman, of Lowndes county, and Hammond, of Randolph county.

The resolution which provided that only resolutions approved by the committee be considered also provided that the resolutions would not be read before going to the committee. Therefore some of the members present were not aware of the Talmadge joint debate resolution.

It was introduced by Representative Marshall, who lives at Oglethorpe, the home city of Governor Talmadge and chairman of the State Highway Board.

Signers of "Debate" Paper.
Other signers were Representative Felton of Bartow, Standard of Wilcox, Blaise of Brooks, Howard of Screven, Edwards of Lowndes, Culpepper of Fayette, Sammons of Gwinnett, Whaley of Telfair, the Governor's home county; Jones of Lumpkin, Black of Forsyth, Newby of DeKalb, Brown of Greene, Campbell of Newton, Manning of Cobb, Brisendine of Peach, Williams of Coffee, Smith of Madison, Ed of Appling, Jackson of Habersham, Holland of Chattooga, Parr of Taylor and Claxton of Johnson.

The resolution recited the state record of Governor Talmadge and provided for a "discussion" of national issues rather than a debate.

Text of Resolution.
It follows: "Whereas the Georgia congressional delegation and the Honorable Walter George and Honorable Richard B. Russell, United States senators, have invited the Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, to open his campaign in Atlanta, during Thanksgiving week; and

"Whereas, the President has seen fit to honor Georgia by accepting this invitation from the Georgia representatives and senators and has announced that he would open his presidential campaign at Grant field in Atlanta, the date to be set later; and

"Whereas, all Georgians everywhere have signified their delight and happiness in having the President of the United States come to Georgia to open his presidential campaign, and we call upon all Georgia democrats everywhere to turn out and give the President the greatest crowd in the political history of Georgia; and

"Whereas, there is another outstanding Georgian, the Governor of Georgia, who has endeared himself to the people of the state by his strict adherence to the democratic platform of the democratic party of Georgia, and has seen that the platform of the Georgia democrats have been enacted into law; and National Platform Cited.

"Whereas, the national democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1932, contained this plank:

"We advocate an immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government, and we call upon the democratic party in the state to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result."

"And whereas, the Governor of Georgia has carried out in the state of Georgia this plank of the national democratic platform, and has effected economies in the state government to such an extent that a most substantial saving has resulted to the taxpayers of Georgia; and

"Whereas, in addition to this, the saving to the people of Georgia by the $3 tag has amounted to over $7,000,000, and the saving to the people that was brought about by Governor Talmadge in the reduction of electric light and power rates, telephone rates and charges, bus and truck rates, freight and passenger charges, has amounted to over $25,000,000, also a reduction in ad valorem taxes of over $5,000,000, making a total of nearly $37,000,000 the Governor has saved the people of Georgia since he has been in office; and

"Differences" in Party.
"Whereas, there appears to be some difference in the democratic party, not only in Georgia but in Louisiana, Virginia, Kentucky and other solid democratic states, as to whether some of the methods used by the present congress are best for the democratic party; and

"Whereas, these differences of opinion are reflected on the one side by President Roosevelt, the titular head of the national democratic party, and on the other side by Governor Talmadge, the titular head of the state democratic party; and

"Whereas, it would be to the interest of democrats everywhere and especially here in Georgia to have these issues discussed from the same platform by these two democratic leaders of America, so as to clarify these issues and enable the democrats to put forward a solid front in the next election, so there will be another democratic victory;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that this meeting go on with the purpose of a joint discussion within the democratic party by these two democrats of America, President Roosevelt and Governor Talmadge, to be held at Central park in Macon after the Atlanta meeting.

Be it further resolved that a committee be appointed to make the necessary arrangements looking forward to formal invitations being extended to these two outstanding democrats of America.

Little Discussion.
There was little discussion of the resolution in committee. All of the members of the group voted to kill it without comment.

There was no discussion of any other resolutions, the better approved after being read by Clerk Andrew J. Kinyard.

The joint debate resolution was signed by Senator R. B. McWhorter, of Greensboro, a Talmadge supporter in the upper branch of the general assembly and by J. B. Jackson, of Gray, a former state senator and Talmadge supporter.

The resolution praising the President and providing for co-operation in the homecoming celebration follows:

Co-operation Resolution.
"Whereas the voters of a great President to our state as the guest of our senators and members of the house of representatives in the national congress is to be held during Thanksgiving week, we, as representatives in the general assembly of Georgia, wish to express our great appreciation of the honor conferred upon our state and upon our able senators and congressmen and wish to pledge on this occasion our undivided loyalty to the President and whole-hearted co-operation with our senators and congressmen to entertain him; and

"Whereas, President Roosevelt, through his magic foresight, timely vision, great humanitarianism and love for his fellowmen, has brought this nation from the abyssal pits of the deepest calamity the world has ever known; and

"Whereas, the house of representatives at the outset of its recent regular session, adopted resolutions expressing its supreme confidence in our President; and

"Whereas, during our recent session our house passed resolutions expressing our confidence in the present program; and

"Whereas, we as loyal democratic members of the house of representatives, do reiterate and affirm our supreme confidence in our President; and

"Whereas, the state of Georgia, the second home of the greatest of all Americans, is uniting from Rabun Gap to Tybee Light to pay him honor, tribute and homage; and

"Therefore be it resolved, that we sitting unofficially as the house of representatives, do extend to the Georgia delegation in congress and the various committees which will be named, to direct the celebration in honoring our President the fullest co-operation and co-ordination of effort in order that this visit of President Roosevelt will live forever in his memory and in the memory of the tens of thousands of Georgians who have signified their intention of joining in the festivities."

Reads Meeting Call.
Speaker Rivers at the outset of the meeting read his letter to the various members of the house calling the session and stressed the fact it was not called for any purpose other than planning for the President's visit.

The speaker also pointed out that only Roosevelt supporters were entitled to sit in on the meeting.

Several members of the senate made their presence known.

Senator McGeebe, of Talbotton, asked if a member of the senate was not entitled to be heard. The speaker in-

Gotham's Seven Million Officially Told to 'Sh-h'

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The clang of garbage cans and the Sweet Adeline quartet in the wee hours of the morn are outlawed in New York city beginning tonight.

By official proclamation, including five "whereases," the city's seal, and the mayor's signature, the city's 7,000,000 inhabitants were warned to "sh-h."

The "shushing" campaign includes: Holding of the horn toot in traffic jams. Hauling the ashes and dumping the garbage with planispheric finesse. Sot to voice for taxi drivers soliciting fares.

formed him that a program had been started and, although he would not permit a talk at that particular time, he would call on the senator later. When he called on Senator McGeebe, the senator had disappeared.

Senator Jones, of Waynesboro; Senator Larsen, of Dublin; Senator Simmons, of Decatur; Senator Millican, of Atlanta; Senator Dennis, of Easton; Senator Lancaster, of Sylvester, and Senator Smith, of Columbus, made their presence known and all stated they desired a larger audience at the Roosevelt welcome. It was at the request of Senators Jones, Dennis and Smith that the house decided to ask for reserved seats for Roosevelt friends in the senate.

Statement by Redwine.
Just before the meeting yesterday, Senator Charles D. Redwine, of Fayetteville, issued the following statement:

"The Georgia delegation in congress invited the President to come to Atlanta the latter part of November. Having extended the invitation, the congressional delegation will, of course, make the necessary arrangements for his entertainment while here and I understand that a meeting has already been called for this purpose. When the delegation meets I shall endeavor to be present and in whatever capacity may desire, without ostentation or seeking to make political capital out of it. Until the delegation does meet, I think any action on my part would be highly presumptuous."

COUSIN OF BARBARA DEPORTED FROM ITALY

James Donahue, Woolworth heir, reported to have cheered for Ethiopia.

ROME, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A young man, identified by the police as James Donahue, 19, cousin of Countess Barbara Hutton Midvian Haugwitz-Reventlow, was deported from Italy last night on grounds that he had cheered Ethiopia.

The young man was not arrested but he was accompanied by two detectives to the border on last night's Paris express train.

Baroness Haugwitz-Reventlow, heiress to the Woolworth millions, remained in Rome.

Officials said she had told the police she wished to remain in Italy and sympathized with the fascist regime and that she and her husband were "admirers of Premier Mussolini."

The deported man was alleged to have shouted "Viva Ethiopia!" from a hotel window while the count and countess were having cocktails Friday night.

Police said that they asked their deportee if he had enough money to get to the border, and that he answered:

"Certainly. I even have a house in Paris, and I will go there."

James P. Donahue, one of the Woolworth heirs, is 19 years old. He travels frequently between Europe and America. One of his recent trips across the Atlantic was when he accompanied his cousin, Barbara, back to Europe after she received a Reno divorce from Prince Alexis Midvian, since killed in an automobile accident in Spain.

At that time, Jimmy was quite emphatic in the declaration that Barbara would not marry again.

He was reported for some time to be serving as Barbara's personal bodyguard, servants at the London hotel last March—previous to her divorce from Midvian—saying that he was totting a revolver in a suitcase.

When a memorial service was held in Paris for Prince Alexis, Jimmy represented Barbara at the rites.

MISSISSIPPI ASSEMBLY WILL CONVENE TODAY

Tax Law Revision and Relief
Expected To Be Approved.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Hotel lobbies, where Mississippi legislators gathered tonight to discuss the extraordinary session which will convene tomorrow morning, were filled with speculation as to what Governor Sennett Comer will do in the lawmakers' laps in the way of recommended legislation.

The governor has told the legislators they would be called upon to appropriate relief funds for Mississippi's disabled unemployed, but other than that he has left them in the dark.

Most of the legislators, many of whom will be lawmaking for their last time, were agreed the chief executive would recommend a revision of the state's taxing laws to permit further reduction of the possible abolishment of the state property tax.

Most observers held to the belief the governor would not submit recommendations for a road-building program, although Governor-designate White, who takes office January 27, already has declared for such a program.

HEADS OF FAMILIES LIABLE FOR WRECKS

Supreme Court Rules Owners
Responsible When Relatives Drive Cars.

Family heads who own cars are legally responsible for damages incurred by members of their households in driving the car, the Georgia supreme court ruled in two cases yesterday.

In one case the court ruled a father liable after his adult son, driving the family car, is alleged to have struck a pedestrian. In the other, the court held a brother liable for an accident which occurred while his sister was driving his automobile on a pleasure trip.

The ruling was given at the request of the Georgia court of appeals, to which the two cases were taken—one from Atlanta and one from Savannah city court.

In the Atlanta case C. E. Harpe is suing Z. T. Hubert Sr., for damages resulting from an accident which is alleged to have happened while Z. T. Hubert Jr., was driving his father's car.

In the Savannah case, Goldie Rubin alleged she was injured while she was the guest of Roseline Levy in an automobile belonging to Miss Levy's brother, Jack Levy. The petition charged Miss Levy with negligence which caused a collision and threw the petitioner from the car.

"UNLOADED" GUN FATAL TO YOUTH

Eight-Year-Old Jack Henderson Succumbs After 12-Hour Fight.

The game of "war" which he was playing Sunday afternoon with his brother, Robert, 13, resulted yesterday morning in the death of 8-year-old Jack Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Henderson, of 801 Ponders avenue.

Accidentally shot in the chest by a .22-caliber "unloaded" rifle held in the hands of Robert, Jack died in Grady hospital 12 hours after the accident. The bullet pierced his left lung and severed the spinal column, hospital attaches reported.

Mrs. Henderson told police that the rifle had been in the house for a long time and that she thought it was unloaded.

Jack is survived by his parents; three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Allison, Mrs. Leon Ericson and Mrs. W. H. Hogan; and five brothers, Lowell, Joe, Rhody, Robert and Herman.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole with the Rev. Weyman M. Albert officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

TEACHERS AIDED

700 Georgians Employed in Adult Education.

Paul Barrett, supervisor in the State Department of Education, said yesterday 700 Georgia teachers are finding re-employment in the adult education program of the FEPA co-operating with the Department of Education.

The first 700 teachers will begin work tomorrow and "hundreds additional will begin as soon as programs can be approved by the state relief headquarters," Barrett said.

This year's program was prepared by Miss Gay B. Shopperson, state relief director, and Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, to reach 40,000 adults in the effort to wipe illiteracy from Georgia, Barrett said.

In addition to attacking illiteracy, the program will offer courses for vocational work, general adult education, nursery school, parent education and workers' education.

It will be third annual program of its kind in the state. The first year 9,000 adults were taught to read and write and last year 22,000 were taught, Barrett said.

Brazilian Town Has Distinction Of Having Depot But No Railroad

Residents of Patos Live in Hope That Some Day the Steel
Rails Will Reach Their Municipality; Georgia-Made
Cotton Gins Being Installed.

This is the twenty-first of a series of articles on South American travel, written for The Constitution by the Rev. Henry Edward Russell, of McDonough, Ga.—Editor's Note.

PATOS, Parahyba, Brazil, Aug. 30. Here is a town that possesses a distinction that so far as I am able to learn no other town can boast.

It has a railway station and no railroad. This station was built several years ago and the citizens still live in hope that some day the steel rails will pierce to this point of the interior.

It's a happy thought to know that we don't have to go down to the depot and wait for the train.

This town also was selected by Anderson & Clayton Company as a suitable location for one of the cotton gins and presses that they are building in this "tree" cotton area.

This huge brick structure that is now under construction is fitted with a unit of four 80-tooth gins from the Lummus Gin Company, of Columbus, Ga. Most of the ancient gins that are now in operation in this country are owned by the larger planters, who buy the cotton from the small farmers before it is ginned.

No doubt the inauguration of the modern gins with their greater efficiency coupled with a slightly higher price will change this order, and throw the crop into the hands of the American company.

Little System in Growing.
At present there seems to be little or no system employed in the growing of cotton in this section. Most of the fields or orchards are small and scattered, it is only rarely that a single field will have more than four or five acres under cultivation. This no doubt is due to the rocky and mountainous nature of the land.

It is cotton picking time here and here.

Here in Patos—the name means ducks, we found a young Texan who has been here for two months in the behalf of American capital invested in cotton.

We asked him how he stood the climate, he replied that he had been able to live through the winter which is just ending but now that the southern summer is coming on he didn't know how he would make out.

I don't know how hot it gets here in the summer but if it increases much over the winter temperature the brick depot will burn before a train arrives.

POWER COMPANY LOSES PAVING CASE

Must Pay Decatur $13,444
Assessment, Georgia Supreme Court Rules.

Georgia supreme court held yesterday that the Georgia Power Company is liable to the city of Decatur for a $13,444 paving assessment with interest from June, 1928.

In affirming Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, the supreme court held that authority to assess a part of paving costs is "both within the taxing and police power reserved in the state."

The court held further that since the Power Company did not take legal steps to halt the paving work although it was "understood" at the time that a paving assessment would be made,

"it is thereafter too late for such company to avoid payment on the ground that enforcement of assessment therefore will deprive the company of its property in violation of the due process clauses of the state and federal constitutions."

The case has been in litigation since 1931 and reached the United States supreme court for rulings on legal questions before it was returned to the Georgia supreme court.

CONSOLIDATION FIGHT PUSHED BY MAYOR KEY

Non-Office-Holding Members of Commission Move To Study Proposals.

Proposed consolidation of the school, police, tax receiving and collection and sanitary departments of the Atlanta and Fulton county governments will be studied today at a meeting of non-office-holding members of the governmental consolidation commission.

Mayor Key called the session after having charged that Dr. Charles Ross Adams, chairman of the Fulton county commission and chairman of the consolidation group, does not favor the proposed merger of any divisions of the two governments.

During the morning the mayor was escorted with Hugh C. Couch, secretary of the consolidation group. The meeting will be held at Key's office at 10:30 o'clock.

Stout Resigns.
Resignation of G. M. Stout, president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, also was accepted by the mayor. Stout informed Key that his other duties precluded his continued service as a member of the commission.

"Duplications caused by the separate maintenance of five departments which will be under consideration, should be eliminated," Key said yesterday. "Some feasible plan should be evolved in the interest of efficiency and of economy for taxpayers."

"This consolidation matter is one of prime importance and should not be allowed to die out without being given a careful and painstaking study. Nonoffice holding members of the consolidation group will view the matter dispassionately and will offer recommendations."

City Manager Urged.
Counselman John A. White, fourth ward, author of a proposal to establish a council-city manager form of government in Atlanta, has announced he will appear today to urge the commission to approve his program. He contends that consolidation in a line that should be effected, but that the process will be tedious and long-drawn-out, even if accomplished at all, while the change in the city charter could be made promptly and without any great degree of delay.

White holds that something must be done to curb municipal expenditures and to replace the present system of government with greater economy and more efficiency, and that his plan will do that.

CROSS SECTIONS

Chief Lone Star, lecturer and entertainer, will address the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in the Ansley hotel. It was announced yesterday.

'Armless Wonder' Living Example Of What Real Grit Can Accomplish

He's called the armless wonder of the age. He's a showman in the World's Fair Freaks attraction on the midway of the Royal American Shows at the Southeastern Fair. But his real purpose in life is to show what a handicapped man can achieve if he just wants to overcome a serious affliction and make a success of life.

This man's name is Paul Des Muke. He's 58 years of age and for five years has been touring the world as a performer, using his toes for fingers, his feet for hands and making his legs serve the dual purpose of transporting him and providing him with arms.

Des Muke was married during the final weeks of a Century of Progress in Chicago. For 26 consecutive weeks he had been employed on the midway in an impromptu performance. His job, a dozen times a day, was to pin a girl to a board wall with knives which he threw with his feet.

The fact that in all this time he never injured the girl with one of the dozen knives so enamored her to the armless wonder of the age that they were married. The wedding took place on the World's Fair midway and John Garner, vice president of the United States, who was a visitor at the fair, attended the ceremony, congratulating Des Muke on achieving life's greatest romance in spite of his handicap; the fact that he was born without arms nor hands.

Mr. Mrs. Des Muke appear at the Southeastern Fair as stars of the show of World's Fair Freaks. These attractions are managed by Dick Best who, a few years ago, quit a printing career at Rome, Ga., to follow the highway of the show world.

In his earlier days Des Muke graduated from law college in Texas and was judge of the Bexar county court. The fact that he was armless; that he used his toes for fingers and his feet for hands, made his courtroom a mecca for visiting showmen. He finally was induced to enter the show world to demonstrate how he had achieved his unique position in life under such adverse circumstances.

ning by a radiator length. Ole Hunt, the other entrant, led the race a good distance on the second lap.

Driving 45 miles an hour, said to be a dangerous speed on a lapped track, Jenkins also won the handicap race. He drove his famous Allis Chalmers tractor No. 999, in which he set the present straightaway record at Lake Bonnetville.

Officials announced that this afternoon Jenkins will try to beat the record for tractors on a circular track, which is now held by Barney Oldfield. Stunts and trick driving will also be featured.

Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, scheduled to speak over the Farm and Home Hour in the exposition building, postponed his speech until Wednesday, Alabama Day, officials said.

Talmadge Speaks.
Speaking on the Farm and Home hour program, over a national network, Governor Talmadge urged Georgia farmers to become self-sustaining and said that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace "can't beat us all around."

"In Iowa, somebody asked if we raise corn down here and I told them if Wallace and Tugwell and that crowd would just let us alone, we'd raise some cotton, too, besides the corn," the Governor said.

Since October, 30,000,000 bushels of wheat have been imported by the United States. In this place I am going to my farm in Monroe county to plant my wheat," said Talmadge. "Let's get that wheat in the ground. Wallace can't beat us all around. Let every man raise enough wheat to take care of his family."

Linder Renews Attack.
Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder followed the governor with an address in which he charged that the southeast has received all the ill effects of democracy and republicanism and had not enjoyed the benefits of either.

He concluded his talk with a statement that with a "free field and fair fight without handicap of laws, we are ready to meet all our opponents in the arena of commerce of the world." Jack Guthrie, general manager of the Winterhaven Orange Festival, and G. B. Manning, representing the 4-H Club, also spoke.

Winners of beauty contests in six southeastern states, who will later compete for the title of "Cotton Queen," were presented at the ceremonies.

Hundreds flocked to George Hamid's Winter Garden revue, and to Blah Curley's Plantation Club, which features Peter Underwood and His Cotton Pickers and Betty Elliott with a floor show. Frank Cervonne's band, playing at the grandstands at night, and the night show, which concludes with a fireworks display.

200 Wagons in Carnival.

There are over 200 wagons in the carnival train, with an army of 981 workmen, artists and mechanics employed in the 24 tent shows and 17 riding devices. Oddities are packed in this tent city. There is Diamond Jim Brady, a 24-year-old man, and Harry Klima, a midget, who is only 28 inches tall and weighs 45 pounds.

Hard riding cowboys and cowgirls from California and Western Frontier Village put on half-raising exhibitions of trick-riding. Hopi Indians do a fantastic snake dance; yet, with all its magic, the show is educational displays in the Cotton States Museum, Liberal Arts building and Cotton States Exposition building.

The Liberal Arts building, including spinning wheels, grist mills and even the rusty weapons of Georgia pioneers, are on display in the museum. The Liberal Arts building, with modernistic decorations, houses hundreds of commercial exhibits which promise to be of interest to prospective buyers.

CATHOLICS STRESS DRIVE ON SLUMS

Charities Conference Told Millions Should Be Placed on Farms.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The need for the elimination of slums—both in town and country—was stressed today at the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

Proponents of relief of such programs would result in the rehabilitation of a large section of the population.

Rev. James M. Campbell, of Ames, Iowa, president of the National Catholic Rural Life conference, advocated returning 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 persons to tillable soil in a huge resettlement program. He claimed this would remove them from the "idleness subsidizing" influences of the dole and enable them eventually to become independent, taxpaying citizens.

Brooks Hayes, special assistant to Resettlement Administrator Rexford Tugwell, agreed with Rev. Father Campbell on the wisdom of such policy.

He pointed out that 10,000,000 acres now under cultivation in the United States was made and made, literally rural slums.

Hayes asserted farm tenancy was "growing at an alarming rate in all sections of the country."

"While tenancy is more extensive in the south," he added, "Iowa has a greater percentage of tenancy than Tennessee, and Minnesota than Virginia."

MIAMI BEACH BUILDING SETS HIGH RECORD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Miami Beach building hit another high for the year with preliminary figures for the first nine months of 1935 released today.

The total was $7,535,898, compared with $4,478,000 for the year. September's total was $1,069,420, against $603,100 last September.

Not since the boom has the beach seen much more building. Even in 1929 the whole year's total was not quite $8,000,000.

Garment Workers Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Amalgamated Garment Workers of America called a strike today at 16 finishing shops for men's clothing. Union officials said 1,500 women walked out because weekly wages were reduced from $14.40 to $10 and working hours raised from 36 to 45.

"Diary of Columbus" Is Found in Russia

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—(UP)—What is believed to be a diary kept by Christopher Columbus has been discovered in archives in the Gargopol museum in north Russia. The book is bound in parchment with a design of seashells and weeds around a seal suspended by a long string.

The text describes Columbus' journeys and is profusely illustrated. The following German inscription is on the title page: "The book of Christopher Columbus from myself for my son, Diego, August 3, 1492."

The question of the book's authenticity and the manner in which it reached the Gargopol museum is being investigated.

Grand Jury Men Studying Police Records

Members of the special grand jury committee which is conducting a thorough investigation of the city police department are shown yesterday as they studied reports and records after they had listened to a parade of witnesses who told of the whisky and lottery situation here in Atlanta. Left to right are O. L. Kennedy, J. T. Bray and Chairman J. G. Barrow. The chairman has appealed to the public to supply the committee with all information concerning alleged police protection for bootleggers. Photo by Kenneth Rogers.

POLICE DEPARTMENT PROBE BEGUN BY JURY

Every officer has the same instructions—that they arrest every violator of any law.

"The police department is finding it hard to control the whisky and lottery situation, with the force it has. Fully 75 per cent of the population of Atlanta is in favor of having legal whisky and they buy liquor when they want it. They do not cooperate with the police in catching bootleggers and whisky dealers at all."

"The same thing exists in relation to the lottery situation. Thousands of persons play the 'bug' every day and they will not help us put a stop to this by turning up the writers," the captain was understood to have said.

Principals at Trial.
Oran Dodd and Walter Jones were principals in the recent trial of Dodd for the murder of Peter Heath Jr., a negro, in superior court. Dodd was acquitted.

Jones, at the time, testified that Dodd and another person shot at him as he rode in his car on Garnett street. Jones was a woman companion. Heath, a pedestrian, was killed accidentally.

Both Jones and Dodd were believed to have been questioned closely concerning liquor traffic here.

Powell and Wilson, the witnesses in the Dodd trial, were understood to have been asked whether or not they had been offered money not to testify for the state in the Dodd trial. They saw the shooting of the negro.

It was reported that Powell and Wilson told the committee no one had attempted to buy them off.

Bribery Charged.
Stegall was said to have made charges that a detective, whom he named, was guilty of accepting bribes. He was head of the vice squad of the city police for many years and worked with both Stegall and the accused detective.

Accree was understood to have been asked questions about an event which occurred nearly 15 years ago, when the named detective, then a member of his crew, did not immediately turn in to the police what he believed was a picked up while raiding a liquor house. The former "wrecking crew" head said the detective had merely neglected to give the gun to the lieutenant and had no intention of stealing it.

Now Barber.
Stegall, who received the charges against the detective, was convicted of killing W. H. Hames, who at one time was a special investigator for Solicitor-General John A. Boykin. It was not learned what other charges he made against members of the police department. He served time in DeKalb county for Hames' shooting and is now a barber here.

Members of the grand jury's group were understood to have asked Captain Roberts, who directs the evening detail of the police force, many questions about lottery "bosses" and whisky runners.

It was reported they asked him why more arrests were not made and why certain places were not raided when it was generally known whisky was sold at them or that they were lottery stations.

The captain was reported as replying that when police start to raid a place they almost invariably are thwarted because their uniforms betray them.

Get Out Point.
"When the operators of these places see an officer come in sight they clear away all whisky or lottery paraphernalia," it was reported the captain said. "Instead of seizing a rule to keep his car at a speed "within range of a clear road." That's been my rule," he says. "I always feel there is trouble beyond my range of vision."

Tenth street Racing.
J. A. Blumberg, of 435 Tenth street, N. E., suggests that auto racing fans would see more exciting races and be thrilled by more accidents if they would come to Tenth street between Boulevard and Piedmont avenue any day or night.

"If one only wants to witness some of the fastest, fancy driving and quickest stops let them attend this race meet which takes place at all hours of the day or night," Mr. Blumberg writes, "and occasionally one of the most perfect wrecks to be had. No spectator will be disappointed."

Mr. Blumberg says a traffic signal light is badly needed.

Sign the Pledge.
The pledge of the Safety Drivers, which The Constitution Safety Council is asking every motor vehicle driver in the state of Georgia to sign will be found elsewhere in this edition. Clip it out and sign it and send it to this paper.

Enclosed stamped, addressed envelope in return you will receive two of the attractive little red stickers for the front and rear windows of your car, to set the example to others and to serve as a constant reminder of the pledge you have taken and of the like pledge you want all others to take.

FIVE ARE WOUNDED IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Seven Gunmen Routed by Woman Teller in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Four men and a woman were wounded, two critically, when seven gunmen were driven off by a woman teller in an attempted robbery today at the University State Bank on the South Side.

William Fleming, 55, bank guard, was shot twice in the chest. Mrs. Dorothy Gregory, 20, a bank customer, was also seriously wounded, a bullet lodging in her spine.

Thorne Dewel, 45, a University of Chicago research department professor, and Carl Butcher, 40, a paper manufacturer, both bystanders, were shot in the right ankle and leg. When a police sergeant attempted to flag down the fleeing gunmen about six miles from the bank they exchanged shots with him, wounding Chester White, 23, a negro.

Miss Astrid Olson, a teller, routed the bandits by stepping on a tear gas canister. Police suspected the "raid" was engineered by "Midge" Fornekes, tiny bandit who walked past guards at Joliet penitentiary recently to escape in the guise of a visitor.

SENATOR LAFOLLETTE TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY

Senator Robert N. La Follette, the senior Wisconsin senator, son of "Fighting Bob" La Follette and brother of Governor Philip La Follette, of Wisconsin, will speak at the Western Memorial church auditorium at 8:30 o'clock Friday night in a meeting open to the public.

His address will be the second the senator has delivered in Atlanta. Last year he addressed members of the Atlanta Underwriters' Association, drawing the largest attendance in the organization's history. The speech this year is being sponsored by the same group and is free. The senator has not announced his subject, but will be given unlimited time.

NEW PEACE PROGRAM IS SOUGHT BY LEAGUE

The application of sanctions against the aggressor.

3. It would specify the sanctions to be applied, and just how and by whom they were to be applied.

Two schools of thought on the question of sanctions were in evidence here.

The first urged the immediate application of the strongest possible sanctions in order to bring an Italian-Ethiopian war to the quickest possible conclusion.

The second school favored imposition of a graduated series of sanctions which would slowly but inexorably throttle war.

SELESSIE AWAITS SIGNAL FROM LEAGUE.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie tonight awaited a signal from his League of Nations envoys to start the drumbeats that will call approximately 2,000,000 eager warriors to arms.

He made intensive preparations for this general mobilization—to start at the first news the League has failed to stave off an Italian attack on his land.

Authorities said the fateful signal might come within a few days.

Then the whole empire will rally to the boom of drums.

The call to arms will be carried out in the traditional Ethiopian fashion. The emperor's "negarit"—official great drums—which are his means of promulgating laws and warning the populace in time of national peril, will resound across the mountains and valleys "with the rhythmic thump of the Jericho," officials said.

The Ethiopian government denied emphatically today that the general mobilization had begun or was being started on Tuesday or Wednesday.

They denied also that Italy had begun hostilities in the north, that Italian pilots were flying over Ethiopian territory or that Italian ground forces were firing machine guns and heavier weapons in the hope of provoking an Ethiopian response.

Another report, spread by authorities was one to the effect two shipments of Japanese munitions had arrived.

ITALIANS DECLARE ETHIOPIA AGGRESSOR.

ROME, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Italians seized tonight upon Ethiopia's forthcoming call to arms as proof Emperor Haile Selassie, not Il Duce, is the aggressor.

Selassie's warning to the League of Nations that he may soon be forced to order general mobilization over shadowed tonight's Italian declaration of the British note to France, placing Britain behind "steady and collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression."

Italy believed the call to arms would put at least 1,000,000 armed Ethiopians on the march, or four times as many men as there are Italian soldiers in East Africa.

On the other hand, it was reasoned that the note of Sir Samuel Hoare, the British foreign secretary, supports several Italian arguments. However, some anger was expressed because "London's reply (to France) contradicts British League policy."

Selassie's phrase concerning "the Italian menace" was answered today by Virginia Gayda in an inspired editorial in the Giornale d'Italia. He called the threatened mobilization "the Ethiopian menace," saying it threatened Italy.

"Everything proves Ethiopia is the aggressor," said Gayda. "She is continuing aggression." "She will continue to be one until she is destroyed."

4 ITALIANS ORDERED DEPORTED FROM MALTA.

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Four Italians were ordered deported from Malta tonight and a fifth, who is a prominent businessman, was forbidden to return here on pain of specific charges against the men were not disclosed.

The five were barred from Malta under the alien ordinance allowing the governor to deport aliens "if he deems it conducive to the public good."

Signor Fusco, secretary of the local Italian fascist branch, and an official of the Banco Di Roma, and Cavaliere Cardenio Batti, bandmaster of the La Vallette band, also are being deported.

High officials said this was only the first step in purging the island, where Italian propaganda has been rife for years. Leniency was being exercised in the case of the five because of the present delicate situation, one authority said. Their activities, he charged, were such as to render them liable to imprisonment.

Mazzone is a former Italian vice-consul to Malta. He resigned that position, authorities said, as a result of alleged espionage activities.

GREAT BRITAIN SILENT ON ITALIAN POSITION.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Recurring reports Great Britain has resorted to secret, backstage diplomacy to bulwark her position against Italy in the Mediterranean sea went unconfirmed and undenied in official circles tonight.

A "hush-hush" attitude greeted the reports from both Paris and Geneva.

Sikhs Smuggled Into Ethiopia As Extra British Legation Guards

By LAURENCE STALLINGS.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 30.—In a vast country where the British Legation is the rallying point for Europeans remaining here through the critical times of the approaching war, though no one has accurate knowledge, save the legation guards, of the strength of the forces quartered there.

Likewise, there were statements from authoritative sources that Great Britain will insist upon Italy settling her quarrel with Ethiopia within the League, and that Great Britain is not open to any bribes or bargains aimed at getting her to countenance Mussolini's East African adventure.

Selassie's warning to the League that he may be forced to order general mobilization quickly was viewed as a warning that a mobilization would require at least a month because of crude communications and transportation facilities.

They denied also that Italy had begun hostilities in the north, that Italian pilots were flying over Ethiopian territory or that Italian ground forces were firing machine guns and heavier weapons in the hope of provoking an Ethiopian response.

Another report, spread by authorities was one to the effect two shipments of Japanese munitions had arrived.

Leniency was being exercised in the case of the five because of the present delicate situation, one authority said. Their activities, he charged, were such as to render them liable to imprisonment.

As Yardstick.

"These great government power projects will affect not only the development of agriculture and industry and mining in this section they serve, but they will also prove useful yardsticks to measure the cost of power throughout the United States," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

"It is my belief the government should proceed to lay down the first yardstick in the form of a state power line, assisted in its financing by the government, and tapping the wonderful natural resources of southern Nevada."

"With it all, with work proceeding in every one of the more than 3,000 counties in the United States and of a vastly greater number of local divisions of government, the actual credit of government agencies is on a stronger and safer basis than at any time in the past 20 years."

"Many states have actually improved their financial position in the past two years. Municipal tax receipts are higher, and the state and local tax and tax arrearages are steadily declining."

People Proud of Dam.

"The people of the United States are proud of Boulder Dam. With the exception of the few who are narrow visioned, the people on the Atlantic seaboard, the people in the middle west and the people in the south must surely recognize that the national benefits which will be derived from the completion of this project will more than make up for the cost."

"They know poverty or distress in a community 2,000 miles away may affect them, and that prosperity and higher standards of living across a whole continent will help them back home."

"Today marks the official completion of the Boulder Dam. It is the first of four great governmental regional units."

"This is an engineering victory of the first order. It is a triumph of American resourcefulness, skill and determination."

"That is why I have the right once more to congratulate you and the people of the nation to say to you 'well done.'"

Socialist Leader Welcomes Roosevelt.

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Upton Sinclair, defeated democratic nominee for governor of California, announced today he had sent a telegram of welcome to President Roosevelt in which he said "mass production by you and for the unemployed is the only way to escape from state and national bankruptcy."

The former socialist said the democrats of California "admire and support your attitude of open-mindedness to seek new paths," but added "measures so far taken have not succeeded in California."

As Mr. Van Sweringen was being congratulated by associates on his victory, he was overheard to say:

"This was assumed to mean that he would have preferred to have met the notes, in default of which his securities were auctioned."

These securities included blocks of a few thousand shares of Chesapeake Corporation, Erie second preferred, Missouri Pacific, and Hump. Mr. Van Sweringen bid in not only the Van Sweringens but also a large assortment of notes and shares of the Terminal Building Corporation, and various other concerns identified with them. Winston-Salem Sales of Weed Begin Today.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Tobacco markets of the old belt tonight were jammed with the lead in preparation for their opening sales tomorrow.

Eight warehouses here reported a total of 2,000,000 pounds on their floors, with indications the sales tomorrow would reach or exceed a million and a quarter pounds.

Four sets of buyers were on hand to complete with two sets that operated last year.

Tobacco men said the crop this year was of superior grade generally, and higher prices than last year were expected for the earlier opening bids were hoped for.

Last year, sales on the Winston-Salem market totaled 763,334 pounds the opening day.

Text of Roosevelt's Address At Dedication of Boulder Dam

BOULDER DAM, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The text of the address made here today by President Roosevelt at the dedication of Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado river follows:

Ten years ago the place where we are gathered was an unpeopled, forbidding desert. In the bottom of a gloomy canyon, whose precipitous walls rose to a height of more than 1,000 feet flowed a turbulent, dangerous river. The mountains on either side of the canyon were difficult of access with neither road nor trail, and their rocks were protected by neither trees nor grass from the blazing heat of the sun. The site of Boulder City was a cactus-covered waste. The transformation wrought here is a twentieth-century marvel.

We are here to celebrate the completion of the greatest dam in the world, rising 726 feet above the bedrock of the river and altering the geography of a whole region: to see the creation of the largest artificial lake in the world—115 miles long, holding enough water to cover the state of Connecticut to a depth of ten feet. And to see nearing completion a powerhouse which will contain the largest generators and turbines yet installed in this country, machinery which can continuously supply 1,335,000 horsepower of electric energy. All these dimensions are superlative.

WORKERS' LIVED BY SWEAT.

They represent and embody the accumulated engineering knowledge and experience of centuries, and what we behold them it is fitting that we pay tribute to the genius of their designers. We recognize also the energy, resourcefulness and zeal of the builders, who, under the great physical obstacles have pushed this work forward to completion two years in advance of the contract requirements. But especially we extend our gratitude to the thousands of workers who gave brain and brawn to the work of construction.

Beautiful and great as this structure is, it must also be considered in its relationship to the agricultural and industrial development and in its contribution to the health and comfort of the people who live in the southwest.

To divert and distribute the waters of an arid region, so that there shall be security of rights and efficiency of problems of law and of the greatest to be found in any government. The farms, the cities and the people who live along the many thousands of miles of this river and its tributaries all depend for their permanent value upon the conservation, the regulation and the equitable division of its ever changing water supply.

PERMANENT SYSTEM OF WATER RIGHTS.

What has been accomplished on the Colorado in working out such a system of distribution is inspiring. Through the cooperation of the states whose people depend upon this river, and of the federal government which is concerned in the general welfare, there is being constructed a system of distributive works of law and practices, which will insure to the millions of people who now dwell in this basin and the millions of others who will come to dwell here in future generations, a just, safe and permanent system of water rights. In devising these policies and putting them into effect, the Bureau of Reclamation has taken, and is destined to take in the future a leading and helpful part.

The Bureau has been the instrument which gave effect to the legislation introduced in congress by Senator Hiram Johnson and Congressman Phil Swing.

As an unregulated river, the Colorado added little of value to the region it flows serves. When in flood the river was a threatening torrent. In the dry months of the year it shrank to a trickling stream. For a generation the people of Imperial valley had lived in the shadow of disaster from the river which provided their livelihood, and which was the foundation of their hopes for themselves and their children. Every year they waited with dread the coming of flood and nearly every year they feared a shortage of water would destroy their crops.

FLOOD WATERS HALTED BY MIGHTY DAM.

The gates of the diversion tunnels were closed here at Boulder dam last February. In June a great flood came down the Colorado valley, and the gates of the diversion tunnels were opened. The waters of the Colorado, I see, and Boulder canyons, but it was caught and held behind Boulder dam.

Last year a drought of unprecedented severity was visited upon the west. The watershed of the Colorado river did not escape. In July the canals of the Imperial valley were dry. Crop losses in that valley alone totaled $10,000,000. Had Boulder dam been completed one year earlier, this loss would have been prevented, because the spring flood could have been stored to furnish a steady water supply for the long dry summer and fall.

Across the desert and mountains southwest of Boulder dam the cities of southern California are constructed adjacent to the Colorado river, which they have raised, for the purpose of carrying the regulated waters of the Colorado to the Pacific coast 250 miles.

Across the desert and mountains to the west and south run great electric transmission lines by which factory motors, street and household lights and irrigation pumps will be operated in southern Arizona and California. Part of this power will be used in pumping the water through the aqueduct to supplement the domestic supplies of Los Angeles and surrounding cities.

RIVER'S NAVIGATION IS MADE POSSIBLE.

Navigation of the river from Boulder dam to the Grand canyon has been made possible, a 115-mile stretch that has been traversed less than half a dozen times in history. An immense new park has been created for the enjoyment of all our people.

At what cost was this done? Boulder dam and the powerhouses together cost a total of $108,000,000. All which will be repaid with interest in 50 years under the contracts for sale of the power. Under these contracts, already completed, not only will the dam be repaid, but the way is opened for the provision of needed light and power to the consumer at reduced rates. In the expenditure of the price of Boulder dam during the depression years, work was provided for 4,000 men, most of them heads of families, and many thousands more were enabled to live a livelihood through manufacture of materials and machinery.

And this is true in regard to the thousands of projects undertaken by the federal government, by the states and by the municipalities in recent years. The overwhelming majority of them are of definite and permanent usefulness.

GREAT PROGRAM OF IMPROVEMENTS.

Throughout our national history we have had a great program of public improvements, and in these past two years all that we have done has been to accelerate that program. We know, too, that the reason for this speeding up was the need of giving work to the unemployed men and women whose earning capacity had been destroyed by the complexities and lack of thought of the economic system of the past generation.

No one would wish to be foolish enough to draw hard and fast classifications as to usefulness of great Boulder dam warrants universal approval because it will prevent floods and flood damage, because it will irrigate thousands of acres of tillable land and because it will generate electricity to turn the wheels of many factories and illuminate countless homes.

But can we say that a five-foot brush wood dam across the headwaters of an arroyo, and costing only a millionth part of Boulder dam, is an undesirable project or a waste of money? Can we say that the great brick high school, costing $2,000,000, is a useful expenditure, but that a little wooden schoolhouse project, costing $10,000 is a wasteful extravagance? Is it fair to approve a huge city boulevard and, at the same time, to disapprove the improvement of a muddy farm-to-market road?

JOBBESS GET WORK ON RIVER PROJECT.

While we do all of this we give actual work to the unemployed and at the same time we create the wealth and assets of the nation. These efforts meet with the approval of the people of the nation.

In a little over two years this work has accomplished much. We have helped mankind by the works themselves and, at the same time, we have created the necessary purchasing power to start the wheels of what we call private industry. Such expenditures on all of these works, great and small, have created the necessary purchasing power to start the wheels of what we call private industry. Such expenditures on all of these works, great and small, have created the necessary purchasing power to start the wheels of what we call private industry.

Beautiful and great as this structure is, it must also be considered in its relationship to the agricultural and industrial development and in its contribution to the health and comfort of the people who live in the southwest.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Low Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, Harsh Exhausting Sals or Wakenings, Irritating.

Habit-Forming Laxatives

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. The fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

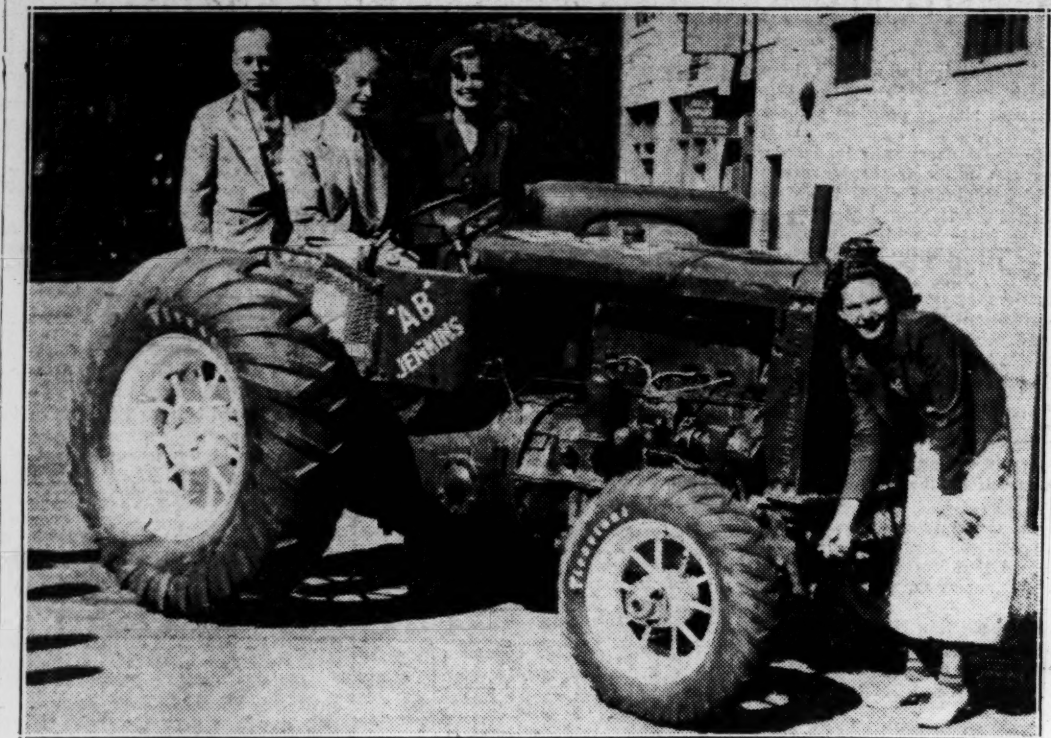

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with methods that are hard, futile or depend on harmful, health-racking salts and laxatives for their action. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

FIRESTONE TIRES ON RACE TRACTORS

Great Wheels Put Terrific Test on Tires at Racing Speeds.

Ab Jenkins, driving an Allis Chalmers tractor equipped with Firestone tractor tires, in which he broke the world's record at 67.81 miles per hour at Lake Bonneville, Utah, is now racing at Lakewood Park at the Southeastern Fair and Cotton States Exposition.

Gordon Hunt, Charlie Hoard, Stubby Mitchell and other well-known tractor racers are racing daily. Their competition will make these unusual races fast and exciting.

Ab Jenkins broke his ankle in a crash of two tractors last week in Nashville but notwithstanding this painful handicap will race each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, except Thursday. W. C. Harris, Atlanta district manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, stated that these fast, heavy tractors racing at automobile speeds put a terrific punishment on tires with which they are equipped. He pointed out that while no one expects farm or other use to demand such punishment, Firestone tires stand up under it and prove that Firestone tires will more than meet all demands made upon them in all kinds of tractor service in all working conditions.

NOVEMBER IS SET FOR COTTON PROBE

Traders and Merchants Will Be Called Before Senate Group.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Hearings by the senate committee on agriculture and forestry to determine whether there has been manipulation in the cotton markets will start early in November, the Sun said today.

The newspaper quoted Alfred S. Wylie, attorney for the committee, who said preliminary work on the investigation would be completed within a few weeks and data collected would be heard by the committee headed by Senator Smith, of South Carolina.

Cotton traders, merchants and members of exchanges and others will be called upon to testify at the hearings in Washington.

The original purpose of the investigation was to inquire into the cause of the break in cotton futures on the New York Cotton Exchange on March 11 when the price dropped almost $10 a bale. Subsequently the investigation was widened by the senate committee to include the period from January 1, 1929, through July of this year.

BUTCHERED BODIES FOUND IN RAVINE

Scottish Police Launch Intensive Search for Slayings.

MOFFAT, Scotland, Sept. 30.—(AP) Scottish police began an intensive effort tonight to apprehend the slayers of a man and a woman whose dismembered bodies were found in a ravine near this village.

They had few clues. One, a copy of a Glasgow newspaper in which portions of the bodies were wrapped, was dated September 2. Another was the story of a hotel proprietress to reporters a large sheet had been found in a stream in the ravine.

She believed the sheet, containing the remains, had been tossed from a bridge and burst open as it fell into the gully.

Police and physicians said the body of the woman was complete with the exception of the right forearm and hand, but both feet, the torso and the right upper arm of the man were missing.

Authorities said the mutilation and dismemberment apparently had been carried out in the most deliberate manner and every effort made to prevent identification.

RELIEF PROBLEMS INCREASE, KEY TOLD

Welfare Board To Discuss Future Care at Meeting Today.

Relief problems for the Atlanta-Fulton County Board of Public Welfare are increasing, Mayor Key was informed yesterday in letters from W. Eugene Harrington, chairman, and Frank Miller, executive secretary.

Harrington pointed out that there are still 500 cases, representing about 1,500 persons, who are classified by the federal government as unemployed, and that a substantial number of these persons will require relief for several months to come.

He also pointed out that the government, which has heretofore given about $30,000 a month for care of transients, has discontinued that service. The average cost of relief per person is $5 at the present time.

Atlanta is contributing $40,000 monthly to relief while Fulton county allocates $25,000 for that purpose.

PASSENGERS REMOVED FROM LEAKING LINER

Hurricane Kills 14 in Bahamas and Devastates Bimini.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The work of removing passengers from the grounded liner Rotterdam was completed tonight as a tropical storm bearing up the Atlantic was located 150 miles off Bermuda.

The Holland-American line was advised shortly before 8:30 the passengers had been transferred to the S. S. Arguani, which started for Kingston, Jamaica.

Reports received at Kingston said the Rotterdam was pounding on a reef and leaking in four tanks.

Bermuda escaped with minor damage tonight as a tropical hurricane that had left a trail of death and destruction in the Caribbean whirled by about 100 miles northwest of this coral island.

A steady wind of 56 miles an hour, with gusts as high as 78, was felt here while the storm passed.

The storm's reported toll was 10 in Grand Bahama and four at Cornishton, Abaco, as well as extensive property damage.

The storm brought fear to Bermuda earlier; with 50-mile-an-hour winds gradually increasing during the afternoon.

The Rotterdam carried about 450 passengers and a crew of 528. Captain J. Van Dulken radioed his New York office: "Everybody is happy."

The passengers are taking it more or less as an experience.

Two hundred and fifty of the Rotterdam's crew were removed. The line anticipated sending its liner Volendam to Kingston to bring the passengers to New York.

Bimini Devastated.

James Laughhead, Associated Press staff photographer, who flew from Miami to Bimini, reported the island devastated but the hardy fisherfolk who live there came through without a scratch.

Nearly three-fourths of the settlement's 150 houses were wrecked. The 610 inhabitants, their fishing boats gone, their wharves and home smashed, their bakery and grocery stores wiped out, their supplies short and their water salty, still grinned. They were cut off from the outside world for 36 hours.

The colonial government at Nassau sped relief to Bimini. Acting Governor J. H. Jarrett headed doctors and engineers preparing to go to the island to handle relief work.

The hurricane was reported by Commissioner J. Malone, at Bimini, to have reached 125 miles an hour. His home was destroyed.

The Cayman islands, about 200 miles northwest of Jamaica, suffered damage to property, the British cruiser Danae reported to Kingston, but there was no loss of life.

NO MORE TAXES

The statement of President Roosevelt that "it is clear to me the federal government, under the provisions of present tax schedules, will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expense of its necessary annual operations and to retire the public debt," will give further impetus to the revival of business already under headway as a result of the "breathing spell" brought about by the adjournment of congress.

The assurance that business will not be called on to shoulder additional tax burdens is based upon the increased revenues from existing tax laws and from the fact that the improvement in the economic condition is bringing about a material reduction in emergency spending.

The President emphasizes that economic conditions during the past fiscal year were "decidedly better than in the preceding year and, of course, vastly better than in 1933 and still better than in 1932."

These conditions have already begun to be reflected in the revenues of the government, and the President, who last January forecast a deficit of $4,528,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30, now forecasts a deficit of only $3,281,000,000.

During the long seven-month session of congress, business remained chained to the stake of uncertainty, not knowing one day what to expect the next.

With the adjournment of congress and the assurance by the President that "a breathing spell is here—very decidedly so," industry and business began to bestir themselves, and soon from every section of the country came encouraging reports of increased trade and decreased unemployment.

In the current issue of Banking, official publication of the American Bankers' Association, it is pointed out that "business is taking full advantage of the respite between congresses. . . . Fear and uncertainty have almost disappeared. They no longer dominate the thinking and planning of careful production managers and purchasing departments."

If the "breathing spell" promised by the President can bring such a revolutionary change in business confidence and volume, Mr. Roosevelt's assurance that there is no need for further tax hikes or restricting regulations, means that business and industry will react to make conditions throughout the country during the fall season the best since 1929—with prices and the volume of trade approximating those of normal years.

The President's assurance is conditioned only upon a continuance of the present revenues of the government, these including the processing taxes upon farm products, which are now being tested in the courts. In the event these taxes are not sustained the revenues now gained from them must be secured from other taxation.

If the taxes are upheld, then the way is clear for congress to meet in January, enact only such legislation as will be necessary to the conduct of the government, and go home as quickly as possible.

Fortunately congress has shown that it will have little patience with further suggestions for ham-stringing business and industry by the cap-and-gown reformers, who would change the constitution to make possible a greater concentration of power in Washington, at the expense of the states.

In its present frame of mind, congress can be depended upon to put a quick quietus on the brain-trusters in any further attempt, whatever its nature, to destroy the renewed confidence of the business leaders of the country.

With the President's definite statement that no new taxes will be needed, and congress certain to give the cold shoulder to any suggestions seeking to impede business, the country can enter the final stage of recovery confident of the conditions that will be met—and of the ultimate outcome.

CAROLINA POINTS THE WAY

Law-abiding motorists of North Carolina are looking forward to a new era of safety on the highways of the state when on November 1 the rigid driver's license laws enacted at the last session of the general assembly go into effect.

Coleman W. Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor Club, predicts that "North Carolinians will soon begin to feel the results of the first real intelligent effort to reduce accidents upon our highways," and warns that—

Careless and reckless drivers might as well begin to correct their high-way manners or submit to arrest, because it is quite certain with high-way patrolmen devoting 100 per cent of their time to enforcement of motor vehicle laws they will apprehend a great number of those who have been running loose upon the highways. This effort, supplemented by the work of the various county and municipal traffic forces, should go a long way toward reducing the tremendous toll of life which our highways have been taking.

The new law makes the revocation or suspension of license mandatory upon the conviction of a driver on a charge of manslaughter resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle; driving while under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs; any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used; failure to stop and render aid in the event of an accident; perjury as to the ownership of a car; conviction on two charges of reckless driving within two months.

The motor vehicle department is further authorized to suspend the license of any driver proven to be a habitually reckless or negligent driver, is incompetent to drive, is a habitual violator of traffic laws, has permitted unlawful use of his license, or has committed an offense in another state that would be grounds for suspension or revocation in North Carolina.

After November 1 there will be a license fee of $1, but the license will be permanent until revoked for cause. No license can be suspended for more than a year and no driver who has had his license revoked can apply for a new one before the expiration of 12 months.

Georgia has needed for many years such an "intelligent effort to reduce highway accidents." The enactment of such a statute in this state would reduce by half the tragic annual toll in dead and wounded and the staggering property loss.

As the result of an unfortunate controversy over the proposed state highway patrol, neither the bill authorizing its creation or the companion measure creating a driver's license, became law.

The intolerable conditions now existing on the highways in every section of the state demand that these measures be reintroduced in the next legislature and enacted into law as speedily as possible.

World's Window

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Hard Work for Missionaries.

"Our main battle among the wild tribes on the confines of the desert is against the castration of male children. We are trying to appeal to the conscience of Christian humanity in convincing the people that castration is the most cruel injury that can be inflicted on a child." Thus spoke Monsignor Janssens, bishop of Harrar, who includes the fierce Somalis, who are nominally Christians, but who are the most cruellest of cannibals, in his list of the most heinous crimes of the continent. "It is almost impossible to convince them that their tribal tribesmen, the Oullamas and Chankallas are worth the least consideration," said the bishop. "They raid their villages for children, mutilate them, and in spite of all decrees to the contrary and strict precautions they ship them off as slaves to Arabia." "If possible," he added, "they will get a male child as soon as it is born. The child's first experience in life is therefore an atrocious operation, performed with the crudest instruments imaginable, a dirty stone knife.

"The Somalis simply laugh when our missionaries tell them that they commit a crime. A crime against their hereditary foes is an act of vengeance and not worth worrying about," the bishop said. "Naturally, when so-called Christians do not shrink from this practice, you can well think what happens among Mohammedan tribesmen. There are very strict laws against these bloody surgical interventions, but the practice is so profitable that half the provincial authorities wink at it and accept graft from the criminals."

Eunuchs Fetch High Prices.

A eunuch brings three times the price of an ordinary slave in the markets of Yemen and the Hedjaz. Formerly, in the days when the sultans still reigned in Turkey, and Kemal Pasha had not pushed through his rigorous reforms, which included the abolition of the harem, thousands of eunuchs were annually imported from Ethiopia. The eunuchs of the Egyptian harem, which included the guarding the treasures and their harems are Ethiopians, only in Egypt they are called Nubians.

Stay Loyal.

Abdul Hamid, the last sultan of Turkey, had 800 eunuchs in Yildiz Kiosk to guard his oasises. In Addis Ababa itself, Bishop Jarosch, who has been in the city for many years, has seen a number of eunuchs who by now are insignificant. There were about a thousand of them in 1914, the last time a census was taken. Provincial governors and chiefs of the harem, serving just as loyally as if nothing had happened to their status.

October 1, 331 B. C.—A lunar eclipse enabled 25-year-old Alexander "the Great" of Macedonia, to win the battle of Armina (Asia Minor), capturing King Darius, and crushing the Persian empire. When his propagandists had created consternation among the 1,000,000 in the Persian camp by telling the king that Alexander was an omen of the wrath of the gods, Alexander's men 40,000 easily put them to rout.

In the taking of three cities that followed, Alexander's army got $150,000,000 in gold and 25,000 mule-loads of jewels and art treasures.

The World War 20 Years Ago Today. October 1, 1915—Hitler's German moved down Germany by the thousands, and Emilienne Moreau, 17-year-old lass of Loos, was mentioned in General Joffre's dispatches for the day. The war office, was promptly dubbed "Jeanne Darc of Loos."

When British troops entered the village of Loos, she organized a first aid station in her house and worked day and night to bring in the wounded. . . . Armed with a revolver, she went out and succeeded in overcoming two German soldiers who, hidden in a nearby house, were firing at the first-aid station.

So reads the official record. Omitted is the fact that she showed down a German soldier when her bayonet was within a few inches of her body; and that later on she destroyed, with hand bombs snatched from a fallen British grenadier, three more German soldiers.

For months she had been living in the ruined town under the German occupation, carrying on as best she could a school for the remaining children. In the absence of town officials she was entrusted by the Germans with most of the administration of Loos. When the attack began on the 25th and the town was raked by allied artillery, her father was one of the victims. She buried him with her own hands, then hid her father's body with her terror-stricken mother and brother until the opportunity came for her to serve.

This happened during the great offensive of the allies, yet the courage of this single individual was not lost sight of. She was decorated with the cross of war.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.
ROPE-WALKING. SAN DIEGO, Cal.—President Roosevelt is probably going to wish that the San Diego World's Fair had been held in Little America or some similar political climate before he gets through.

In California he is stepping here into the hottest spit in democratic ranks anywhere. On one side are the Upton Sinclair epicureans, unquestionably in control of a majority of democratic votes in this state today. Their bitter antagonists are the good old-fashioned McAdoo democrats, who have the money and the inside party machine.

General Farley's deft footwork on his recent visit to California will undoubtedly be the diplomatic routine for Mr. Roosevelt to follow. Farley remained away from Hamilton Cotton's democratic picnic (the McAdoo wing). The general feeds them the patronage in Washington and could afford to snub them here. In public and in private he hobnobbed generally with the Sinclair boys.

The play on that seem to be that Mr. Roosevelt wants to keep close to the epics—but not too close.

BORAH Senator Borah is strong in the west. From Chicago out you will find a strong undercurrent favorable to the Idahoan for the republican presidential nomination. It reaches its fullest strength on the coast.

The leaders are not in on it, but all the wise ones know that the senator with the silver tonsils has unvocational support. In fact, the shrewdest here will tell you the record that Borah is in the lead for the nomination today. The Lucas poll was not as far wrong as Washington politicians thought.

Borah would be the man, if it were not for one thing. He was tops with all the party strong men after his constitutional speech. A month later he made an inflation speech. That made them turn thumbs down on him. They think he lacks stability. He will not get the nomination.

ACE Those who have seen Senator Borah lately say he has a good ace hidden in the lining of his hat. It is supposed to be a letter from Postmaster-General Farley to someone in Idaho. Its authenticity is attested, apparently, by the fact that it is signed with the Farley green ink. Gossips relate that Farley, in his letter, promised to move the United States treasury to Idaho to defeat Borah for re-election next year, or something equally extravagant and untrue.

Borah is awaiting the right moment to make the letter public, they say.

STOCKS The foremost business authority on the Pacific coast was optimistic until a month ago. He had felt that the natural growing health of business would overcome its broad uncertainties. Nothing in particular has happened to make him change his mind. It is just a new hunch, based apparently on the suspicion that the financial understructure is not firm.

For instance, he has figures indicating that the anticipated earnings of 60 major industrial stocks for next year average only about 3 per cent. These figures do not justify some of the prices for these stocks on the Pacific coast. Business will continue to grow better, he thinks, but at a more moderate pace.

BONDS The price of high-grade bonds also has been interesting to this well-informed authority. He knows that the large investment corporations (trusts, insurance companies, banks) have been draining this field dry and that prices have been inflated by this abnormal demand.

His opinions are not conclusive, but are as good as you can get from this end.

PIGS The troubles of New Dealing here are just about the same as in every other section of the country, only more so. There is, for instance, the unpublished yarn about the farmer in Siskiyou county. He was one of those farmers who never had time to count his pigs, but just let them grow fat and fast. A county agent came around and counted them, finding that the farmer had 152 too many.

The farmer agreed that these 152 extras would have to be eliminated. He suggested that they be slaughtered and buried on his farm. But the county agent insisted that they be given to needy placer gold miners, who were having a hard time getting enough to eat.

The farmer contended that this would close up the nearest market for the rest of his pigs and ruin him. He has written of his problem to prominent authorities. The county agent has taken the matter up with Washington.

No one has consulted the pigs.

LABOR SHORTAGE Then there is the typical yarn about the men on relief down in Kern county. There are 7,000 of them in that community, but only 30 per cent of the farmers cannot get sufficient farm help to move their crops. The men on relief declined to take the field jobs for a few weeks because they would lose their relief status.

It seems that nearly everyone in California can tell you of a farmer friend back in the hills who could not get sufficient help because of this situation.

RELIEF CHECKS The other side of the relief picture is offered by Roosevelt supporter. Manchester Boddy, Los Angeles publisher and county agent, has insisted that they be given to needy placer gold miners, who were having a hard time getting enough to eat.

Mr. Boddy went shopping the other day in a Los Angeles suburb and found the stores nearly empty. He inquired the reason and was informed by the clerk that the relief checks were due to arrive that day, but had been delayed.

THE JEWISH CALENDAR.
The length of the Jewish month (which is called a lunar month) is determined by the duration of one revolution of the moon around the earth. The word lunar means "measured by the moon's revolutions." One such revolution is completed in 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes and 3.3 seconds, or approximately 29 1/2 days. Because of the inconvenience of dividing a day between two months, the Jewish calendar is so arranged that each month has alternately 29 and 30 days.

"Between the lunar year—that is, the time of 12 revolutions of the moon around the earth—and the solar year, or the time one revolution of the earth around the sun, there is a difference of 11 days, the other of about 85 1/4 days. In 19 years, the difference amounts to seven months. We have, therefore, seven leap years, viz., the third, sixth, eighth, eleventh, fourteenth, seventeenth and nineteenth years of a 19-year cycle. Consequently, every third year in order that the holy days may be observed at the proper seasons. Or, to be exact, a thirteenth month is added on the third, sixth, eighth, eleventh, fourteenth, seventeenth and nineteenth year in a 19-year cycle.

A One-Dollar Compromise Is Cheaper

Than a Ten-Dollar Victory
BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

In Washington's time the common people were illiterate, lousy and unwashed.

The soldiers and sailors who fought for liberty fared no better than slaves. Standing in close ranks to be fired on at short range with poisonous lead bullets required phenomenal courage, and discipline was achieved by feeding them rotten meat, exposing them to unbearable hardships, and whipping them for disobedience.

Of course they hated their officers and deserted at the first opportunity. Factory workers were treated little better, especially in England. They worked long hours for starvation wages, lived in filth and disease, and never were really free of hunger and misery.

Gentlemen of the ruling class meant war. They firmly believed that the only way to make a profit was to starve the workers, and the only way to maintain discipline and keep the peace was to hold the poor even down, require him to tip his cap to his betters, and treat him rough to break his spirit.

The world has learned much since that time. The soldier is treated like a man and no officer dares to strike him. And the result is a better soldier, supported by morale instead of discipline.

The factory worker works shorter hours, in a sanitary building, and earns enough money to buy a car. He has been to school; he is clean; and he cringes before nobody. As a result, he is a better workman and a better citizen, and the boss makes profits undreamed of in the old days.

Those who are capable of learning anything have learned by experience and observation that friendly co-operation is more profitable than tyrannical rule achieved by crushing all opposition.

Railway men, printers and pressmen are the best organized and most powerful of labor groups. They are well treated and well paid. And nowhere in the world will you find an equal body of workers as intelligent, as loyal or as steadfastly devoted to their jobs.

There are stupid capitalists and stupid labor leaders who still say: "We must crush the opposition at any cost and teach them a lesson they won't forget."

But sane men know that hate begets hate and violence provokes violence and tyranny invites rebellion. They prefer friendly co-operation because it is more decent and more profitable.

HOLLYWOOD HEALTH TALKS

IN PERSON
BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1935, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
HOLLYWOOD Sept. 30.—Foreign imports are the order of the day. It would seem that we had sufficient talent in Hollywood to make all the pictures in the world, but the same old story is being repeated over and over again. We are making more pictures today than we can find good stories for, and far more than our acting personnel can handle.

See then, Maria Eggerth and Jan Kiepura arriving in Hollywood to contribute to our California product. Both are known somewhat to our audience here, but they are well known to the group which attends art cinemas and sees the European products.

Dimpled, blond, far faster than we allow our screen beauties to be, is Maria Eggerth. She has a lovely voice and she has had plenty of musical experience in the opera houses of the continent. She has camera experience, too, and she is sufficiently smart to make her a box office attraction.

Of perhaps the same proportions as Maria Eggerth, but with a more rounded present-day Marlene, the lovely girl from Germany, who arrived in Hollywood some six years ago. Frightened eyes and broken English contributed to make her a rather unassuming figure. The unbecomable beauty of her skin, the balance of those frightened eyes were more or less lost in the general ill-at-ease manner of this foreign player who had been so loudly heralded.

A veteran press man looked her up and down. "Quite lovely," said he, "very dark, very fine skin, very lovely eyes." The lovely girl went to the floor so he couldn't pass on the famous legs. "But . . ." he added ominously, "America won't accept a chameleon like that. You'll have to train her down."

He proved to be a prophet. Marlene Dietrich did not appear before a camera until 17 months later. Thin, dark, and with a broken English, she emerged the slimmer woman who first was seen with Gary Cooper in "Morocco."

Even today Marlene Dietrich cannot make her face sufficiently slim to please her taste. She likes her cheekbones highly accented—her cheeks to be hollowed as if ravaged by fever. The type of beauty she is, however, is a type of a fever patient's. She realizes the beauty of her skeleton and accents it to greater advantage with makeup and lighting.

Her face is rounder than round. It is broad and dimpled and the picture she makes is a picture of a fever patient's. She realizes the beauty of her skeleton and accents it to greater advantage with makeup and lighting.

Jan Kiepura—husband of comely Maria Eggerth—came to Hollywood from Poland. His round face is forgotten when he sings, for he has the type of tenor voice that wakens romance in his hearers. Women forget that he hasn't a note of music in his head, and are so completely taken by his voice that they start an entirely new cycle and that might be very interesting.

Jan Kiepura—husband of comely Maria Eggerth—came to Hollywood from Poland. His round face is forgotten when he sings, for he has the type of tenor voice that wakens romance in his hearers. Women forget that he hasn't a note of music in his head, and are so completely taken by his voice that they start an entirely new cycle and that might be very interesting.

He will appear with Gladys Swarthout in the first opera to be written by the composer, Erik Korngold, with the arrangement of the musical setting for "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The "Midsummer" is a setting that it sets a new all-time high in such things.

Korngold's music for the Kiepura-Swarthout opera is of a far higher type than anything motion picture men have as yet dared to do. It is a definite move into the classical field of the choral and orchestral, as such, a terrific gamble.

Foreign importations have, in the past, proved slow to launch. They have been either successful successes or outright failures. Garbo—correctly groomed and prepared—swept a world, Dietrich, ditto. Anna Sten—after the prescribed year and a half of grooming—failed to make a mark. The market has very little on the movies when it comes to chance.

For Hindus Only.

A world tour for orthodox Hindus is now being arranged at Calcutta. Compelled by their religious obligations to visit the holy cities of Benares, Allahabad and other places, they are being taken to the most practical difficulties stood in the way of foreign touring.

Now it is proposed to charter a special liner in which all eating and living arrangements will be conducted strictly in accordance with orthodox religious demands, while a room will be reserved for daily worship. Only orthodox Hindus passengers will be allowed to book passages, and it is intended to arrange a five-month tour with calls at the principal spots of the world.

REV. BROOME REPLIES TO NEW DEAL ATTACK

Dr. Knight's Stand on Roosevelt Administration Is Assailed.

HOMER, Ga., Sept. 30.—Replying to Dr. W. H. Knight, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, Atlanta, for his attack upon the Roosevelt administration in a recent issue of the Christian Index, Rev. C. J. Broome, of Homer, assailed the Atlanta minister's stand in the current number of the Baptist organ.

In his reply to Dr. Knight, published in the Index, Mr. Broome says: "In Dr. Knight's sermon on communism published in the Index, he goes out of his way to attack the present administration in Washington, accusing the President and the lawmakers of turning to socialism and making other insinuations of terrible evils wrought by the Roosevelt regime.

Agrees on Evils.

"As to the evils of communism, we are agreed. As to the communistic system being the antithesis of popular rule and fundamentally antagonistic to the Christian religion, I am as fully aware as Dr. Knight.

"But to my mind the Roosevelt administration has done more to forestall communism in this country than all that has been done before, more than 1,000 sermons like those of Dr. Knight. When men tramp the streets hungry and jobless, communists are made. When babies cry for milk that is robbed from their little mouths by greedy capitalists, communists are made. When mothers walk in rags while cotton rots in the warehouses, communists are made.

"The Roosevelt administration has saved this country from communism. There is no doubt in my mind that the drastic emergency policies of the present administration had not been carried out, this country would already have been in the throes of an awful revolution that would have set civilization back 100 years. Let Dr. Knight and other attack the Roosevelt administration—the facts of his accomplishment stand in history as epochal.

"Dr. Knight has erred in making the Roosevelt administration with its attack on communism.

"Has Roosevelt attacked the Christian religion?

"Has the present administration advocated the overthrow of the home?

"Has Roosevelt or the lawmakers urged free-love and the abolition of the institution of marriage?

"Has the administration advocated

LYNCHING IS CHARGED TO 'UNKNOWN PARTIES'

VIENNA, Ga., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The lynching of Lewis Harris, 50-year-old negro, was recorded officially today as a "death at the hands of parties unknown."

The verdict was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury after investigation into the slaying of the negro near here by a mob last Friday night. His bullet-riddled body was found hanging to a tree beside the Vienna-Fitzgerald highway.

Harris had been arrested for drunkenness and escaped by threatening Sheriff Bob Vinson with a pistol. He was trailed by bloodhounds and recaptured.

Sheriff Vinson said there was some talk of violence when he returned the prisoner to jail here and the officer obtained a court order for removal of Harris to Fitzgerald for safekeeping. While making the trip at night, the sheriff said, he was overpowered by four carloads of men and the negro taken from him. Vinson said he could not identify any of the group.

Justice of the Peace W. V. Harward, who conducted the inquest, said the negro's body bore between 25 and 30 bullet wounds.

TIED AND PEPPLESS

No wonder so many of us get up in the morning feeling as tired as when we went to bed—no wonder the world looks blue. If your stomach is full of a thing like bile, rancid vinegar, your food doesn't do you much good. You get what comes from a sour fermenting mass. You can't help but lose strength, get nervous and feel exhausted. The time it takes to get over the bowels, upsets their action and you get constipated. Then toxic poisons poison the system. You start a lot of things like headaches, rheumatic pains, bad skin, etc.

Don't take salts or purgatives to clean out this sourness—flush out vital body fluids and leave your system dry and inflamed without helping the cause. Try Placidin, the new medical discovery with the double action. Placidin corrects excessive acidity without disturbing the stomach juices. It forms a soothing coating over raw irritated membranes and helps stop the making of more burning acid. You get RELIEF at once from gas and acid indigestion. Take Placidin regularly for a short time and you'll soon rejoice at the astonishing return of vigor.

Constitution's Daily Cross-Word Puzzle

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I wish you would discuss the hard time a girl has these days to keep herself from being mated and mated. I am in my late teens, have a good job, have been told that I am nice looking and attractive. I love good clean fun but I don't meet boys who are satisfied with clean fun. When they insist on kisses and I refuse they sneer and say "All right, Grandma, have it your way," which is one way of saying they won't be back. Maybe there aren't any nice boys these days. What about it?

N. B.

Answer: There are plenty of nice boys these days and you have only to hear a group of them discuss their attitude toward the girl who is to be convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that masculine ideals are as high as they ever were. Your modern high-minded boy admires the nice girl who doesn't permit him to maul her and manhandle her and he doesn't quit her cold because she puts him in his place. The truth is that human nature doesn't change. Nobody wants what is free; least of all does a boy want for his best girl one who cuddles in the arms of Tom, Dick and Harry, parks in roadsters, couples, sedans and limousines on side roads in the wee small hours of the night, one that takes on all comers for petting, privileges. The most persuasive and the most persistent petter among them will be most particular about choosing a pure lily for a life-partner.

The young miss who meets the demands of her professional petters soon becomes well advertised as good pickings and although she may have a date for every dance, finds herself surrounded by boys every time she appears in public, be it in such demand that she has to crowd in three dates every evening, she is known to the boys as "The drip off a wet smack." So if petting is the price of popularity who wants to be popular?

But petting is not the price of popularity and the proof lies in observing the top-notchers in any community. Well-to-do girls have something better to put up in the way of entertainment and the more they have to put up, the less will they be annoyed with pawing, manhandling, manhandling nitwits who naturally gravitate to nitwits. The girl who can start the boys' minds to working can keep their hands still. The girl who can toss back and forth the bright ball of conversation does not have to wrestle with her boy friends.

We are all adept at excusing ourselves for failure in any undertaking. The young miss who has failed to make a ten strike on popularity is no exception to the rule. She has the ready (and the fashionable) alibi at her tongue's tip: "No petting, no popularity and I won't pet." Like every other alibi, it may save her face and save her pride but it doesn't touch the heart of the matter. She had better admit the bitter truth. For some inexplicable reason the boys don't fancy her. If she lets down the bars the boys may run in but they will run out again when they hear of a warmer number in the neighborhood. If they are not satisfied with "clean fun," unclean fun won't satisfy them long. If they put over their campaign for kisses with one, they soon move on to more difficult campaigns. If they come to pet they do not remain to propose.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

NEW FOOD SHORTAGE PANIC GRIPS GERMANY

Housewives Store Provisions Against Famine; Police Patrol Markets.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Scarcity of fats, meat and fruit threatened tonight to joggle Germany's economic equilibrium.

Household providers scurried from one butter store to another trying in vain to buy quarter pounds of meat of fat, and officials were just as busy trying to allay fears, to insure future supplies and to protect their carefully built up self-sufficiency system by buying only the absolute minimum from abroad.

Police patrolled meat and dairy stores to prevent the "smuggling" of foodstuffs and to enforce strict rationing of increasingly scarce supplies. Deliveries were watched carefully lest stores attempt to send butter and lard to their customers after the regular trading hours.

Housewives bought all the lard, fruit, meat, etc., they could, obviously fearing shortages in those lines indicated a scarceness of other foods.

Some observers considered it likely that the situation will be done by one dairy shop which was visited by a reporter today was selling milk by the pint only and limited amounts of bread.

"We sold out of supplies today and I don't know what food I can get for tomorrow," the owner said.

It was almost out of the question to obtain pork while other meats were going up rapidly in price. Some restaurants were serving bread without butter.

TWO GANGSTERS SHOT BY N. Y. UNDERWORLD

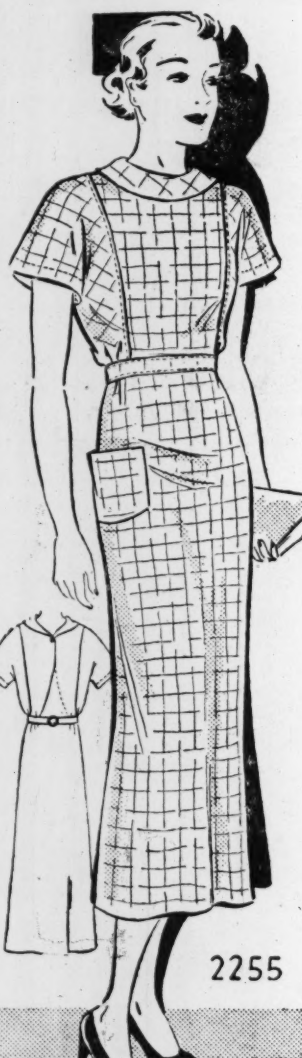

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two gangsters were executed against a garage wall today by three gunmen in an underworld killing.

The killers, dressed as garage attendants, waited in the garage for their victims, Joe Amberg, 35, and Morris Kessler, 30, who were current racketeers in Brooklyn bars and restaurants to patronize an apron supply concern he controlled. Kessler was his chauffeur.

As the pair approached Amberg's expensive new sedan, three young men dressed in overalls accosted them. "Stand against that wall," they ordered. The two had scarcely reached the wall when a volley of shots rang out.

Amberg fell face forward and Kessler sprawled half across his body. The murderers escaped.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

THE RAISE FROM ONE TO FOUR. From the standpoint of expert play, one of the most drastic changes in the Culbertson system, model 1935-36, deals with a direct raise of an opening suit bid from 1 to 4. Previously, such a raise was construed as a strong slam try, and for once the Sims and Culbertson systems were in blistful accord. Now, its meaning is just the opposite. It is a shut-out raise, pure and simple. Far from being a slam attempt, it is an admission of weakness in honors, although sufficiently powerful distributally to stand a sacrifice penalty doubly.

The requirements for a triple raise, 1 spade-4 spades, are at least five trumps and a singleton, with 1-1-1-2 honor tricks in the hand. With 6-5-1-1 or 6-5-2-0 distribution, 1-2 honor trick is sufficient and, if your partner is not an unqualified moron, you can dispense with honor strength altogether.

Here are three types of hands on which I would jump partner's one-spade bid to four:

▲ K-6-4-3 ♦ 9-5-4-3-2 ♠ J-7-6-5-3
 ♣ K-9-8-3 ♥ K-7-5-4-3 ♦ 10-6-5-4
 ♠ 8-6 ♥ 8 ♦ A-Q-5

Notice that a triple raise now is a limit bid, denying more than 1-1-2 honor-tricks. With stronger hands one always makes a double raise, 1 spade-3 spades, which is a forcing bid. The triple raise really is a big brother to a single raise, which shows adequate trump support, from 1-2-1-2 honor-tricks, but is too weak distributally.

It is not an easy matter to switch millions of players from a bid that, for a long time, was construed as a slam try, into a diametrically opposite inference. It was only after long and careful deliberation with the country's leading experts that we all decided to do so. Does it mean that in the past we have been wrong? Not at all.

A few years ago the 4-5 no-trump slam convention, did not exist, and the slam technique was far from being adequate. With an introduction of a number of new slam inferences, the need for a triple raise as a slam try has disappeared. It is now more profitable to use this bidding situation to reinforce this group of defensive or shut-out bids.

Personally, I always have preferred to use this triple jump as a shut-out. It is a beautiful and effective weapon, like all shut-out bids, in the hands of a skilful and discriminating player.

The Side Suit First.

With a two-suited hand, there are many cases in which the side suit must be established before the trump suit is bid. The reason is that the trump suit is necessary to furnish entries.

It will be observed that South, although his hand seems strong, bids only three spades after North has shown preference for that suit. North's hand, to justify his bidding, could have been even weaker than it was.

West opened the ace and another diamond; South ruffed the second. He wisely refrained from leading trumps, but instead led to the king of hearts and back to the ace. When the queen fell, he next led a low heart. West could not gain by ruffing, and discarded a diamond. Dummy ruffed with the spade device, kept the queen and another spade. South drew trumps and won his ninth and tenth tricks with hearts. If he had laid down the king of spades before leading hearts, dummy would have had no low spade to lead back to the South hand after hearts were established.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What do you open against a no-trump bid, holding three cards to an honor in a suit your partner has bid?

Answer: From A x x, K x x, Q x x, or J x x open your lowest. From 10 x x you lead the ten.

NANCY PAGE

Cut Glass Suggests a Quilt Pattern to Nancy.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Cut Glass Dish

"I was rummaging around in the old china closet the other day and I came across a cut glass dish that belonged to my grandmother. It was all sharp points which caught the light and broke the rays into hundreds of prisms. That pattern caught my attention and I wondered why I could not do something with it as a quilt design. So here I am with cut glass dish.

I think this could be made in soft blue and white or pink and white. I don't visualize it in strong colors but it might be striking made in red and black and black and white sprig for background.

There are only two size pieces in the block. So you can see it will be easy to cut and easy to make. The Nancy Page quilt club members clipped the picture and directions from the paper. They pasted it in their Nancy Page quilt scrapbook. Then they sent for the directions. This has the full size pieces but they do not have a seam allowance. That means you must add one-quarter inch on sides when cutting. The easiest way to do this, uniformly, is to trace the design as given on the sheet onto lightweight card board. These patterns are then cut out. They are laid on the goods and a sharp pencil point is used to make an outline around the pieces. Then in cutting the seam allowance is made one-quarter inch beyond the pencil line. The seams are sewed on the lines. This insures a finished block of exactly the right size. Nancy always suggests however, that one block be cut and pieced as a trial block before any more are cut out. Then any discrepancies in the pattern may be corrected.

In sewing the pieces together use number 60 white thread. Have small firm knot in one end. Start seams in one-quarter inch from ends to edges. Finish the seam with two or three firm small backstitches, having these in the same distance from edges. This allows you to press the seams open and flat. For a double bed size quilt, 90 inches wide and 106 inches long, the material required will be six yards of plain color and three yards of white. For a quilt that does not cover the pillow use less, making the top only 96 inches long.

81ST BIRTHDAY

Retired Police Captain Chandler Is Honored.

There were 81 candles on the birthday cake at the home of L. T. Chandler, at 1508 West View drive, Sunday, when his children honored Captain J. R. Chandler, who was a member of the police department for 46 years before his retirement in 1933.

There was also a discussion of the times when patrolmen rode bicycles in the muddy streets of the Atlanta of another year when an officer's beat extended from the end of town to the other.

Former Chief of Police James L. Beavers, close friend of Captain Chandler, and the captain together turned back the pages of time and dwelt in memories of the good old days.

Four generations were represented at the party. There were Captain Chandler, his son, L. E. Chandler, a granddaughter, Mrs. A. E. McKinney, and a great-granddaughter, Eleanor McKinney, 4.

Although Captain Chandler's birthday is not until tomorrow, the celebration was held Sunday to permit all of the children to attend.

New Debutante, Today's Meeting Intrigue the Fancy of Society

By Sally Forth.

MARJORIE CARMICHAEL, who reaches her native shores when her boat docks in New York tomorrow after a tour of Europe, is the latest possible addition to the 1935-36 Debutante Club. Marjorie, you know, is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carmichael, whom Betty Fleumer visited when she met her fiancé, Edward Alston Lee, and to whom she will be married on October 23 in Mount Clemens, Mich. Marjorie will be a bridesmaid at the Fleumer-Lee wedding, and will hasten to Detroit to participate in the parties to be given in Betty's honor. Therefore Marjorie's friends will be denied the pleasure of extending greetings to the prospective debutante, who will probably reach Atlanta in time for the Halloween ball.

A called meeting this morning at the Driving Club will assemble the corps of debutantes for the purpose of deciding upon their special charity which will benefit from the fashion show set for October 18 at the Driving Club. At yesterday's meeting Dr. William Anderson discussed the needs of Grady hospital; Mrs. Frank Neely represented the Child Welfare Association; Mrs. Glenville Giddings spoke on behalf of the Cornelia Moore Day Nursery, and Osgood Sanders Nursery was discussed by Mrs. Carson Sewell.

The date of the charity fashion show and ball has been definitely set for October 18, and plans were discussed for ticket sales, added attractions, and other arrangements. The next meeting of the club will be held at 10 o'clock today at the Piedmont Driving Club.

ALTHOUGH they don't observe a freshman week at Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C., Ida Akers, charming sub-debutante of Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, almost wishes they did, so she would get credit for some of the trials she is having to face during her first days there. As soon as she was comfortably settled at school, she was put at a table where no language but French is used under any circumstances during meals.

Ida says they have perfectly marvelous food, but it doesn't do her any good, because she doesn't even know how to ask for it, and she can't enjoy eating for worrying about how to ask for more. Ida was supposed to go to Annapolis for the dances last weekend, but the school authorities wouldn't allow it as it was her first week-end at school.

Ida, Laura Hill, Julia Hoyt and Emily Evans went up to Gunston on the train together and had a very fine time. They met a girl from Columbus, who had been to Gunston before, and they pined her with so many questions and talked so long that the poor girl lost her voice during the night.

All four of these and Julia Colquhoun, another attractive Atlanta at Gunston, are quite delighted with school, and even more unusual, they all like their roommates, too.

"If it had been a snake, it would have bitten you" is an expression oftentimes heard when someone else points out the thing you are looking for. But from an actual experience, Esie Dallis can prove it is not true.

Esie kept the key to her car on a little table next to the radiator at the foot of the stairs at the home of her parents, Mr. and

Former Atlantan

Mrs. Ernest E. Dallis, of Peachtree road. One morning recently as she went out to get her car, she realized she had forgotten the keys. She went back and as she reached for them she was startled by seeing the head of a snake protrude from the top of the radiator within a foot of her hand.

As she screamed, both her mother and the ever faithful "Cookie," of the Dallis household, ran to her rescue. Discovering her plight, they naturally thought she had seen a garter snake, or perhaps a big fat worm, but on closer inspection they found him under the radiator top.

The yard man came to the rescue and with hoe and stick killed what was found to be a land moccasin measuring 31 inches. And so-o-o-o. Esie relates, there is absolutely no truth in the old saying that "if it had been a snake, it would have bitten you."

Esie kept the key to her car on a little table next to the radiator at the foot of the stairs at the home of her parents, Mr. and

A New Discovery

In Cosmetics

Some women are endowed by nature with a smooth, fine-textured skin, needing only an occasional powdering; but, unfortunately for most women, with even the average skin, powder simply tends to emphasize the roughness of the skin and leaves that most undesirable, tell-tale "powdered look."

For this latter class a new cosmetic has been developed which solves their beauty problem, and makes them just as beautiful as the more fortunate sisters. This new cosmetic is a combination face powder and cream, all in one, and is known as "Cu-Crema."

This wonderful discovery, because it is a cream and powder combined, spreads evenly over the face and transforms the appearance into one of delightfully appealing smoothness. The cream has in it beneficial elements that invigorate the skin while it beautifies. Cu-Crema is something every woman should use. It comes in flesh, white and brunette, and costs only 50c at any drug or department store. (adv.)

Jim Lindsey Baffles Indians as Crackers Even Series, 9-2

GEORGIA AFRAID 'NOOGA TOUGHER THAN BEAR TEAM'

Bulldogs in Tennessee Saturday; Sustain But Two Hurts.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 30.—With one of the barriers sufficiently taken care of the Georgia Bulldogs gridders today turned their eyes on the second game of the season, against the University of Chattanooga in Chattanooga next Saturday afternoon.

Except for two casualties the Bulldogs came through their 31-0 rout of the Mercer Bears in good condition. Alf Anderson, Decatur flash, suffered a broken hand which is expected to keep him out of action for at least three weeks. Ward "Red" Holland, fullback, received lacerations on the calf of one of his legs.

A much harder struggle is expected against Chattanooga next Saturday than was put up by the Mercer Bears, according to Athletic Director H. J. Stegeman. Therefore no letup in the practice schedule this week.

SECOND TEAM. Reorganization of the second team will be Coach Harry Mehre's chief objective this week. The fourth quarter of Saturday's game saw the second-stringers fare poorly because they were unorganized. It was during the latter part of the game that the Bears' offense shone most.

Glenn Johnson, ordinarily a right halfback, was in there at left half since Anderson was injured. The reserves will probably see plenty of rough work this week with at least two scrimmages slated. The varsity will see at least one scrimmage and maybe more this week. Rough work is slated for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A. C. "Scrappy" Moore, a former Bulldog grid and baseball player, is coach of the Chattanooga Moccasins. Here Saturday for the Mercer-Georgia game, he was all eyes and ears, and did not venture forth much news about his team.

Moore played about the middle of the past decade as quarterback. For the first time in the history of the Georgia football team, blocking dummies will be used this season. Six of them were brought on the playing field this afternoon and the gridders were using them to advantage. Some one jokingly remarked that they were about the same height and size of stubby Lew Young. Incidentally, Young was out in uniform today for the first time in several weeks. He has been ill with influenza. It is expected that he will be ready to play by next Saturday.

Today's was a light routine drill. Punting, passing and pass defense featured the practice. The charging sled was being used, as were the newly introduced blocking dummies.

Concerning Georgia's performance in the opener, Athletic Director Stegeman commented, "The boys looked good considering it was the opener. They could have beaten the Bears much more, however."

According to Chattanooga newspapers, the Moccasin rooters are really going after the game with Georgia. Furthermore, they admit that they have a good team, and that Georgia will have to go some to win. The game will be played at 2 o'clock, central standard time.

SOUTHWEST RACE OPENS SATURDAY

By Bill Parker, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Southwest conference football championship starts Saturday at Fayetteville, Ark., where the invading Texas Christian University Frogs will tackle the University of Arkansas Razorbacks. In last year's combat, the six other teams in the conference will engage major opponents in non-conference competition. Outstanding will be the battle at Tyler between Temple University and Texas A. & M.

The 1934 champion Rice Institute Owls will battle Duquesne University at Houston. Southern Methodist will play Tulsa University at Tulsa; the University of Texas meets Louisiana State at Baton Rouge, and the green-clad Baylor Bears will meet Texas A. & M. at Waco.

CENTER OF INTEREST. The center of interest will be at Fayetteville, where a powerful Texas Christian team, one of the top favorites for the year's conference crown, will meet at experienced Arkansas Razorbacks. The Christians rolled over the North Texas Teachers Saturday at Fort Worth 28 to 11.

Arkansas had to dig in and fight hard to take a 12-0-0 game from the Kansas State Teachers. Beating the Razorbacks at Fayetteville is always one of the most difficult of conference assignments.

Smothered last year, 40 to 6, the Texas A. & M. Aggies, co-leader, and fresh from a 25-0-0 decision over the Sam Houston Teachers, are eager for another chance at "Pop" Warner's Temple Wildcats. Game officials are confident 20,000 people will see this international set-to.

TEXAS MEETS L. S. U. Jimmy Kitts' mighty Rice Owls received their baptism of intersectional fire Saturday night at Baton Rouge, where they barely whipped the Louisiana State Tigers, 10 to 7. The University of Texas Longhorns will attempt to duplicate Rice's feat Saturday with a slashing 38-0-0 victory over Texas A. & M. Texas showed a pair of smashing backs in Irvin Gilbreath and Buster Jureka.

Havingaced wild in two set-up games, Coach Madison Bell's Southern Methodist Mustangs face a real test against Tulsa University. Depending on a running attack, the Mustangs faced Austin College, Saturday, 60 to 0.

Harris To Manage Senators in 1936

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris will manage the Washington Senators again next year.

Owner Clark Griffith announced today he had given Harris a one-year contract for 1936.

"I'm pleased with Bucky's work during the past season and am happy to have him with us another season," Griffith said.

Under Harris' management this year the Senators finished in sixth place in the American league.

Big Jim Lindsey, a grand person and a grander pitcher, came into the clubhouse last night, grinning after his 9-to-2 victory over Oklahoma City Indians to put the Crackers all even in games won. He had struck out ten men and allowed but seven scattered hits.

"Been wanting to get at some Indians ever since I read about what they did to General George Custer out there in the west," said Jim. "Didn't like that at all!"

Last night Jim massacred the Indians. Completely.

EDDIE MOORE—EARL MANN. There may be no coincidences at all—except that both won pennants.

Yet it so happens that Charley Grimm was able to make Grimm's Fairy Tales a true story in Chicago where the Cubs won the pennant. And Eddie Moore stepped in after many failures by many managers and won a pennant for Atlanta. And—

Both had the same formula—no mental strain. Grimm told his players, midway of their remarkable string of victories:

"I don't care if you don't win another game. I don't care if you don't make another hit. You've already played great baseball and done more than was expected of you."

Eddie Moore never once exhorted his players to do or die. Time after time during the long weeks they were out in front their lead was cut to a fraction of a point.

Yet Moore never mentioned it; never worried about it. He never let his team worry.

Let each day take care of itself. And the result was his team never tightened up. And Grimm's nine, up in Chicago, knowing the manager was satisfied and that all was well no matter what happened, went out and stretched their string of victories to 21 games for a new record and won a pennant. And may win a World Series.

Eddie Moore made some mistakes. He's human. But he made fewer than any other manager the Crackers have had in the long decade of mistakes and failures.

He thought at first that tact was something you put in a chair for a guy to sit on. But he learned. There's a streak of frankness in him which is all right. And he used a lot of common sense and common sense baseball. And next year he should be a better manager. He did more than rather well in his first year.

And Atlanta has in Earl Mann a club president who is destined to go far in the executive end of baseball. He has a knowledge of the game plus a rare personality for meeting people and for sizing up the values of his jobs. It was a great combination—in the office and on the field.

DIXIANA OR DIXIE. Jack Fitzpatrick—he does the catching chores for the Oklahoma City Indians—well, he and the missus are expecting one of those bundles from Heaven within a few weeks.

And Jack Fitzpatrick already has the name ready. He's so excited about the Dixie series and the fact he's playing in it, he's decided to name the baby in honor of the series.

If a girl, she will be known as Dixiana Fitzpatrick.

If a boy, the lad will be called Dixie Fitzpatrick.

I don't know if the mother has been consulted or not. Maybe she won't go for the baseball names so strongly. It may be the girl will really be called Mary and the boy Robert or Jack—once the missus takes a hand in the business of names.

MAJOR RALPH SELASSE SASSE. There's a story going the rounds about Major Ralph Sasse, former head coach at the Army and now doing the coaching job at Mississippi State.

Two colored porters at West Point, where the major was stationed for so many years, were talking.

"I guess," said one, "them Eye-talians will romp on them Ethiopians."

"I dunno about that," said the other. "I reads in the paper where Major Ralph Sasse is over there a-runnin' things and the major was a mighty tough military man when he was here at the Point."

At that, I guess Haile Selassie could use an officer like the major. He's a good one.

RILEY SMITH WRITHES. I read in the story of the Alabama-Howard game by Mr. Zippo Newman, of the Birmingham News, that Riley Smith, Alabama quarterback, writhed on the bench as he watched his mates play in the Howard game.

I suspect that Mr. Frank Thomas writhed more than Riley Smith, who was writhing, according to Mr. Newman, because of the mistakes his players were making.

Frank Thomas was put on the spot very generally this year. In fact when your correspondent visited Tuscaloosa and suggested that Frank Thomas could not have, and should not be expected to have, a team comparable with the one which won the national football title, there were some suspicious souls who suggested that your reporter must have been convinced by one of Mr. Thomas' songs of woe.

But the facts are that Frank Thomas is in a most difficult spot. Every team which faces him is going to throw everything it has at the Alabama team. If it "takes," they will be satisfied. If it doesn't, then it is just what they expected.

And Thomas, able coach that he is, still cannot get inside the skulls of his players, and make them realize what they face. The players are just youngsters. And youngsters do not have enough experience to know that last year is last year and that this year's tasks are new.

Alabama hasn't the material of last year; nor the reserves. And Alabama's players, despite all Frank Thomas can do, will be lacking in keenness of competition for a time.

Thomas and his staff will bring them out. But there are so many barriers ahead that if he manages to have a successful season, it must be hailed as even a finer job of coaching than the one of last year.

And if Riley Smith isn't in there he may lose a few games. Smith is the "difference" for Alabama as he would be for any other team.

ON TO OKLAHOMA. About the time the honest citizen is sitting down to his coffee, bacon and eggs, our brave lads, the Crackers, will be riding out on the way to Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma was settled by people from Tennessee, Georgia and Kentucky. In fact, it was citizens from those three states who fought all the battles for Texas and who helped make the other western states what they are today.

And so, our brave lads are going to try and capture the Dixie series from those Indians. It's quite a job. But then this ball club doesn't really begin to step on the gas until the pressure is on.

TWO JACKETS OUT OF GAME WITH SEWANE

Captain Eubanks and Brittain Injured; Alex Stresses Blocking.

By Jack Troy.

Georgia Tech will not have Captain Lefty Eubanks in the lineup against Sewanee Saturday at Grant field. A big, hard-hitting tackle will not be used at all, unless there is a definite need for his presence in the game, Coach W. A. Alexander said yesterday.

Eubanks injured his left knee on the first kick-off Saturday and, while the injury is not serious, Coach Alexander does not choose to take any chances of further injuring Eubanks, who is one of three tackles.

And so Coach Alexander said he would groom Phil Chance for Eubanks' right tackle position.

WRENCHES BACK. The other injured member of the Tech squad is Fulton Brittain, a guard, who wrenched his back in practice before the Presbyterian game. Brittain will not play against Sewanee unless the Tigers force the issue.

John McKinley suffered a badly cut mouth, requiring the taking of several stitches, and also injured a leg. McKinley, however, will be all right for the game.

The Jackets held a relatively light workout yesterday, being led through a setting-up drill by Coach Alex, then hitting the dummy a few times and running signals.

Slow motion blocking was practiced, and today this procedure will be speeded up in a regular scrimmage. The Jackets will scrimmage today and tomorrow.

SEWANE IDLE. The Sewanee club did not play last Saturday. The Tigers were resting up for Tech. And, according to scouts' report of their game the week before against St. Louis, the club that comes down from its mountain-top home to do battle with Tech may surprise a lot of people.

NEVER QUIT. They're traditional battlers, are the Tigers, and they never know when to quit. The squad will be almost as large as Tech's. And the starting eleven will not be greatly overhauled.

A versatile attack will be stressed by Tech this week. The Jackets exhibited a new type of offense against P. C. and will continue to hold variety as the motto.

Lawrence Hays, Fletcher Sims and Harry Appleby all called signals on Saturday and virtually ran the gamut of plays. They forgot to use only a couple of plays.

Then, too, there was a bit of a slip-up on the part of the Jackets in using a certain formation, on which Scrapy Edwards had made a fine gain, more than just that one time.

Coach Alex was rather pleased with the performance of his team but he will not be very lavish in his praise until the blocking shows a definite improvement.

Hoot Gibson, alternate captain and one of the better ends in Dixie, will lead the Jackets into battle against Sewanee. A fine leader, is Gibson, and a battler from start to finish.

Blocking in the backfield, as exhibited by Sims and Appleby, is proving to be a pleasure. They make a great sophomore combination.

WORK ON PUNTERS. Tech kicking must be a bit better and Coach Bobby Dodd will go to work on the punters this week. Line Coach Mack Tharpe will place emphasis on blocking.

Tharpe and Dodd traveled by plane to Cincinnati for the Kentucky game Saturday and yesterday reported Chet Wynne's club as very formidable. Kentucky will be put to the test this week against Ohio State, Big Ten favorites, and tomorrow will oppose the cats the following Saturday at Lexington.

Sewanee Shown Jackets' Plays. SEWANE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Sewanee Tigers got their first glimpse of Georgia Tech plays today by looking through a long offensive scrimmage.

The freshmen spent the afternoon learning plays of the Tech eleven, which plays Sewanee in Atlanta Saturday, and tomorrow will oppose the varsity in a second scrimmage.

ROUGH MATCHES AT KEY ARENA

Roughness featured the matches at Key arena last night. Honey Boy Hackney out-roughed Abe Marshall, the Florida champion, to take the main bout in one fall when Marshall was unable to return for further combat.

In the semi-final, Joe Sentell won over Jack Russell by default when the latter was disqualified for continuous unfair tactics against both Sentell and the referee.

The opening match resulted in an another victory for Young London when he defeated Wesley Brownlee in a close bout.

Quigley and Stark To Umpire Series

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Ford Erick, of the National league, today named Ernest Quigley and Al "Dolly" Stark as the league's umpires in the World Series.

Colored Program Friday at Avondale

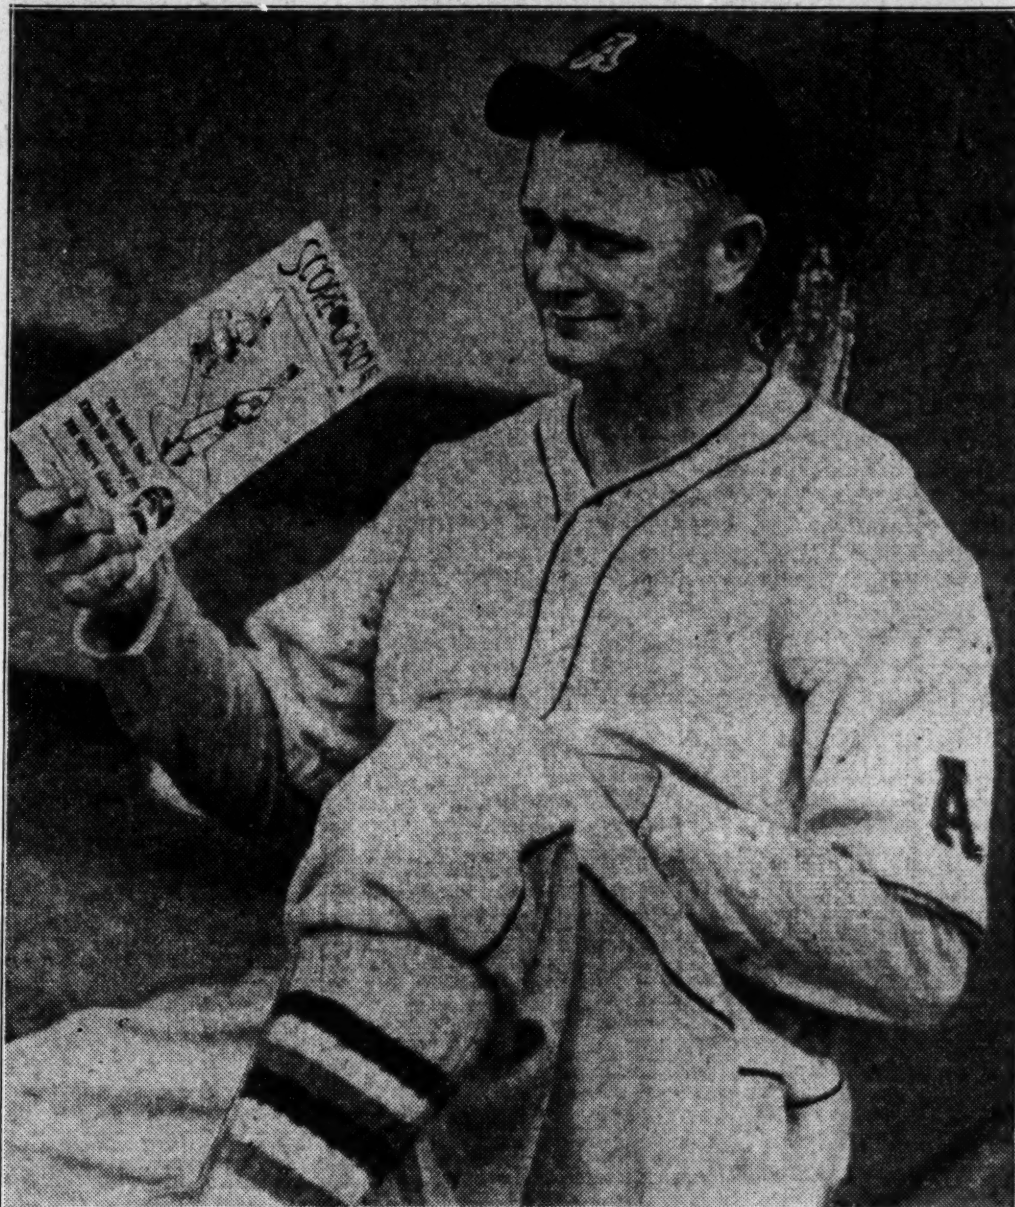

An all-colored boxing and wrestling card will be presented Friday night at Avondale open air arena. The card will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

The feature boxing set will see young Billy Hooper, scrappy colored middleweight, mixing it with Hoke Lindley, in what promises to be a tough scrap. Both fighters are making their debut here in the first boxing card offered by Promoter C. D. Jones. They will meet in a 10-round set.

Big Dennis, light-heavyweight slugger, will meet Bill Hooper, of Atlanta, in the 8-round semi-final.

OPPOSE OLYMPICS. BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Baltimore city council tonight adopted by an 18-to-1 vote, a resolution urging withdrawal of the United States from the Olympic games to be held in Berlin next year. The resolution was based on a charge of "racial discrimination."

'Big Jim' and His Victory Smile

Last night Big Jim Lindsey, one of the league's best pitchers, stopped the Oklahoma City Indians, 9 to 2, struck out 10 men and allowed only seven hits as the Crackers evened the series at one victory each. It was a magnificent exhibition of pitching. He will pitch one of the games in Oklahoma. The club leaves for Oklahoma today.

World Series Wrought Change in Henry Ford

Until 1934 Classic in Detroit, Auto Magnate Was As Inhuman As Electricity.—Pegler.

By Westbrook Pegler.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 30.—The people of Detroit gave a fine world-series show last fall, including a spirited riot by the left field constituency. So it is a pleasure to approach a renewal on the same premises and with approximately the same social and professional cast.

Gardner, best winner Sunday, venturing rather timidly out of his lameness to mingle with the people of whom he had been in one so long ago, and discover them not at all unfriendly. Mr. Ford sat in at the ball yard, crunching peanuts and laughing with the late Will Rogers, his favorite jester, who mouthed his gum and flopped his bang, uttering dry humor and signing his name to any scrap of paper that was shoved in his hand, thousands of times all told.

Mr. Rogers is gone, which is a pity for the people who worshipped him, and made him a greater hero than both ball club champions and even the newspaper lads could be seen in the evening coming at him with their souvenir programs and borrowed fountain pens.

FORDS THERE. It was a strange experience, the night before the series began, to attend a sort of civic dinner in honor of Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' manager and catcher, at the Detroit Athletic Club and discover among the guests who rallied round to honor a ball player, and through him his team, miscellaneous Fordes, in person, and other lesser members of the automobile royalty.

There have been many World Series in New York for example, but neither J. P. Morgan, nor any member of the house thereof has ever been detected, either at a game, or at the more frivolous night-side rites. In Washington, the current president customarily attends the opening game, usually as a concession to tradition and without apparent enthusiasm, but never sits in at the speeches and toasts of the night before. In St. Louis, the series have become a time of disturbances, like fires in the stock-yards, and Chicago and Philadelphia are equally self-possessed on like occasions.

But Detroit accepted the winning of the American league pennant by Mr. Cochrane and his men as a star on the report card of a great city, and the big men who have become too big to acknowledge their achievement. To those of us who, a few years ago, schemed and angled about Detroit, hoping to get just a look at the great, mysterious oracle of progress and business, usually without success, it was a distinct surprise to see Mr. Ford at a ball game.

Somebody who a World Series might be, and decided to have a look at the people at one of their great tribal celebrations. The people on their part, got a look at Mr. Ford and the impression seems to have been mutually good for it is reported that he is coming back this year and no objections have been heard from the community.

BLOODLESS. He had walked through the Sunday pictures in the company of Edison, Firestone and Coolidge. He was a fabulous figure, bloodless as a monument, and no more human than electricity. Neither beloved nor hated, but just a great force in the universe.

Then Mr. Ford heard that a World Series was coming to his town. Asked somebody who a World Series might be, and decided to have a look at the people at one of their great tribal celebrations. The people on their part, got a look at Mr. Ford and the impression seems to have been mutually good for it is reported that he is coming back this year and no objections have been heard from the community.

It would be too much to expect this year a repetition of the wild and furious, but harmless disorder, which broke out when Mr. Ducky Medwick of the St. Louis gas house gang, slid into third one afternoon and lay on his back in the dust, clawing at Marvin Owen with his spikes. That was something spontaneous and special, and if it happened again it might necessitate funerals, grand juries and triple probes, as we say in the papers.

The Detroit customers in left field waited until Medwick came out to field his position, then rushed down the chicken-wire barriers, smashing their fangs and burling bottles, fruit and other missiles in a truly alarming portrayal of the way mobs act when their mad is up. It lasted 30 minutes, more or less, more savage each minute, and Mr. Medwick would have been torn limb from limb and beaten to death with the gory stumps of his

It was the greatest social occasion in the history of organized baseball and not a bad adventure for the Ford family either as it gave them at last a finger-hold on the lapel of the ordinary man, per Mickey Cochrane.

KNIGHT WINS. MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joe Knight, 172 1/2, of Cairo, Ga., methodically smashed his way to a sixth-round technical knockout over Salvatore Ruggerio, towering 205-pound Italian boxer, in their 10-rounder here tonight.

HARRIS, HOOKS AND HILL BLAST OKLAHOMA ACES

Easterling Fans Four Straight Times; Teams Go to Oklahoma City.

By Ralph McGill.

5,285 fans paid to see the Taming of the West. But it was a great crowd at that, the real baseball fans, who yelled their vocal chords into a collective fizzle.

The Crackers scored three runs in the second to put Red Evans on the ropes. They rocked him with punches in the third and in the fourth to put him down for the count. Two runs came over in the fourth before Charley Moncrief could get the side out. Our brave lads counted one more in the fifth and in the sixth got over three more tallies. In that inning the Indians were punch drunk. They made three errors.

Oklahoma scored in the third and fifth but Big Jim had the situation well in hand all the way. He made those Indians play dead or jump through the hoop, just as he desired. Those ten strike-outs were masterpieces.

BUSTER GETS HOT. He struck out three consecutive batters in the first inning after walking in the first batter. He got a hit in the second and two in the third.

Next to the pitching of Jim Lindsey the defensive play of Buster Chatman was a great feature. He made a stop on Brower's grounder in the seventh that was impossible. Yet he did it. And threw out Pinch Hitter Knott, who had walked on in the ninth he made another of those impossible stops on a ball hit by Myers to force Fitzpatrick back to second.

Nig Lipscomb also played a smart defensive game, making two spectacular stops in the fifth. He got a line drive from Brower's bat and went way deep to take a fly from Keesey.

The Crackers really rose to the occasion behind Lindsey. In the early part of the game they were falling to hit in the pinches but Joe Hutcherson, Sheriff Harris and others came out of a Dixie slump in the later innings to really put on a show. Only 35 men faced Jim Lindsey. That's not a record. Not by several batters. But in three innings there were three up and three right down. And in three other innings only four men were up in each.

RUNNER STRANDED. Those Crackers of ours started off with their new fault, a development of this series, leaving runners on base. Hill and Hooks singled in succession with one out in the first, but Hutcherson struck out and Dave Harris was infired out on error.

It was that second inning which saw our brave lads start scoring. Nig Lipscomb opened it with a double to center. Chatman walked. Joe Palmisano was a strikeout victim, but a passed ball advanced the runners and Big Jim Lindsey shoved a good sacrifice bunt out there which Red Evans missed and Lipscomb scored. Chatman advanced. He tallied on Peek Hamill's forecourt of Lindsey. And then Evans scored on Brower's error.

CRACKERS' TURN. That was three. The Indians had made one in their half of the third, so the Crackers came right back in the fourth with two more. Hill singled and Hooks doubled, and the double brought in Hill. Sheriff Harris doubled to score Hooks.

Oklahoma scored one in the fifth and our gallant lads matched it. Chatman walked and after two were out, Hamel walked and Chatman scored on a single by Hill, on which Paul Easterling made an error.

The sixth was our inning. It began description. The Indians made three errors. The Crackers made two hits. And got across three runs. It was a very comical inning.

NINE WAS ENOUGH. That made nine and that was enough. You should have seen Jim Lindsey pitch that baseball. He pitched the greatest game of the series, Shaughnessy or Dixie.

He held them to two hits in the last four innings. This was his answer to the current idea he is a relief pitcher.

And so it's on to Oklahoma. With the series all square.

Widener's Horse Captures Event

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—They gave George D. Widener's Station 140 pounds to carry today, but the strap-ping five-year-old gelding, the high train of the turf's sprinting division, handled the burden as if it was a mere feather as he won the 22nd fall high-weight handicap at the opening of Belmont Park's 12-day autumn meeting.

In running his season's record to three victories and a pair of seconds in five starts, each achieved with 130 or more pounds in the saddle, Station sprinted down the six furlongs in the brilliant time of 1:10 1/5. At the finish, Jimmy Hunter, the big son of the late Prince Headley's Whopper, another giant thoroughbred, with Deering Jones's Cyrene an additional four pounds to the rear in third place.

With Belmont opening its gates a month later than usual, a crowd of about 8,000 was on hand to make Station a 12-2 choice.

Rowe Will Oppose Varneke in Series Opener Wednesday

COCHRANE FIRES DETROIT TIGERS WITH PEP TALK

Navin Field's Seating Capacity Is Increased for Classic.

By Alan Gould.

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Arkansas will furnish all the sharp-shooting ammunition for the opening of baseball's annual war.

It will be Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, right-handed pitcher from Ed Dorado, against Lonnie Varneke, the pride of the Ozarks, and the Detroit Tigers meet the charge of the sensational Chicago Cubs this Wednesday in the first game of the 1935 World Series.

After driving his American league champions through a hard two-hour drill under a welcome sun at Navin field, beaming as he saw them snap out of their late-season sluggishness with a real show of spirit, Manager Mickey Cochrane ended any lingering uncertainty about his pitching plans. "Rowe is right, and that means he's our No. 1 man," said Cochrane. The fiery backstopper of the Tigers was enthusiastic as he watched the tall right-hander breeze through a half-hour's workout. The Schoolboy's definite nomination by Cochrane for the opening game was the signal for fresh optimism in the Bengal camp.

WARNEKE TOUGH. "We know Varneke is tough, that he's the man we will have to beat," conceded Cochrane, "but Rowe will match everything he's got and, the rest of our right-handed staff should give us the edge—maybe in six games. Those Cubs will see plenty of curve balls. You can bet on that much, no matter how long the series lasts."

"I might change my mind about the rotation, but my intention now is to pitch Rowe, Tommy Bridges and Elden Auker, in that order," continued the Detroit leader. "All three have the benefit of last year's experience. They've all got what it takes to beat the Cubs, mostly a right-handed bunch of hitters. I don't need to gamble with a smart veteran like Al Crowder, as I did for the opening game of last year's series. At that, if a good spot develops for him."

Million Dollar Show. Cochrane, his Tigers and the advance guard of baseball's camp followers, gathered from far and near for the annual warfare and what looks like another million-dollar sports show. The Cubs will see plenty of curve balls. You can bet on that much, no matter how long the series lasts.

With additional capacity for 19,000 cash customers, the home park of the Tigers can accommodate 48,700 fans. The baseball fever hereabouts, surpassing last year's turmoil of excitement, that the field could have filled three times over by eager rooters seeking tickets at $5.50 each in the grandstand. The biggest turnout last year at Navin field numbered 44,551 for the sixth game.

The Cubs, arriving this evening, got their first peek at the battleground tomorrow. Cochrane was agreeable to any plans of Charley Grimm, Chicago manager, so far as final workouts are concerned.

"I know the Cubs are hot, that they will carry the momentum of that great pennant-winning streak into the series," conceded Cochrane, "but the Tigers are a winning ball club, whenever the pressure is on and the opposition is tough. All this season, the team has come through with necessary to gain or protect the league lead."

"I'll admit we looked pretty sour at the finish but the pressure was off for the last week. There was nothing to fight for and everybody seemed to relax. Beginning today, things are different. There will be no more loafing."

The echoes of Cochrane's dressing room "pep talk" were reflected in the Tiger showing on the practice team. A seasoned outfit, two-time pennant winner, the battering Bengals con-

Jo Jo White To Get Call In Center Field for Tigers

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joey White, although hitting only .243, to Gerald Walker's .296, will get the call for center field and lead-off duty for the Tigers for the World Series, Manager Mickey Cochrane said today. White's speed and defensive ability, plus his experience, gained him the job despite the fact the Georgian hit only .130 in seven games against the Cardinals last October.

Goose Goslin, a World Series star back in 1924-25 with the Washington Senators, was looking around the clubhouse with a brand-new bat. "This one's for Varneke," grinned the Goose, taking a full swing. In the slugger's fan mail today was a letter with nothing but the drawing of a goose, with its goslin, for an address. It presented no puzzle at all to the mailman. It came from Battle Creek, Mich.

The chief sewer for the series will be James C. Isaminger, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He will be aided by H. M. Salsinger, of the Detroit News, and Warren Brown, of the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

George Moriarty, once a star third baseman for the Detroit Tigers and manager of the club in 1927-28, will be behind the bat as umpire-in-chief on old familiar grounds for the opening game. Moriarty, as senior American league umpire, will officiate in his fifth series.

This will be the sixth series for Ernie Quigley, the second for Albert (Dolly) Stark, and third for Bill McGowan, the other three umpires assigned. Quigley and Stark are the National League's.

Detroit's right-handed pitching staff figures the Cub batting list is made to order for curve balls. Only three Chicago regulars swing from the port side, including Augie Galan, sensation at outfielder and a switch hitter. The others are Phil Cavarretta, first baseman, and Stanley Hack, third sacker.

The bulk of the Cub power, featuring Herman Lindstrom, Hartnett, and Demaree, is generated by right-handed batsmen.

The Tigers also have one switch hitter, Billy Rogell, but Cochrane, Gehring, Goslin and White all bat left-handed.

CARDS GENEROUS. ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Regardless of the front-office attitude, win or lose, the St. Louis Cardinals are a generous squad of ball players.

Meeting today to distribute their second-place money, the team voted a full share to Pat Crawford, pinch-hitting star of 1934, who has been out of action all this year because of an infection following an operation. A half-share was voted for Charley Wilson, utility player, transferred in mid-season to Rochester.

ed their manager by getting down to business briskly again. Led by big Hank Greenberg, the team's No. 1 powerhouse, they belted the offerings of Roxie Lawson, rookie twirler.

1,000 Cub Fans In Ticket Line. CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Disdainful of the risk of head colds, aching backs and bent arches, more than 1,000 hardy Cub fans tonight stood, sat, and leaned away the hours until World Series tickets go on sale tomorrow morning.

They came with the dawn. And with every hour their number increased. Young and old, men and women, some warmly dressed and some not so well bundled, but all good-natured, they waited for 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Cub Bat Boy Left Behind. CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Cubs, confident and determined, boarded a special train for Detroit and the World Series late today, minus their "luck" mascot, Paul Dominick.

Paul, the little fat boy who sat on the Cub bench through most of their spectacular winning streak, was at the station to bid a mournful goodbye to his idols. They all mourned his head for luck before boarding the train.

ORVILLE BROWN TO MEET ROCHE ON MAT TONIGHT

Chief Chewacki Returns With Joe Cox as His Opponent.

Looking ahead to a possible match with Dan O'Mahony, world's champion, Orville Brown, the big Kansas who used to punch steers, and Darv Roche, the big Scranton grappler, will meet tonight in the feature match of Henry Weber's program at the city auditorium.

Brown, a star of rodeos before he took up wrestling, still uses some of the tactics he employed in bull-dogging. He is one of the leading heavyweight wrestlers.

STRONG MUSCLES. Roche, weighing well over 200, strengthened his muscles as a coal miner before he entered the wrestling profession and, like Brown, he is one of the strong men of the game.

It is to be a great battle, with possibly a good chance to meet O'Mahony here at some later date as the reward. The entire card is to offer more than the ordinary amount of action, with Chief Chewacki, the old gypsy chieftain, clashing with Joe Cox, that old devil, in the semi-main event.

VERY COLORFUL. Chewacki has always been very colorful. And tricky. He has been known to use every sort of trick in the book to win a contest.

Such as choking a foe with his eyes and all that sort of thing. Cox, too, knows his share of the tricks. He was a one-man riot in Mexico City when he was on a tour. The Mexican fans almost chased him out of the country.

The opener tonight brings together Joe Kosonaros, cousin of the late George Kosonaros, and Rudy Strongberg, a giant German. Both are good coming highly recommended.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters. Ladies will be admitted free with paid escort.

Chicago Votes Full Series Shares

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—They can't point the finger at the 1935 Chicago Cubs and call them "stingers" because of their World Series slice.

Remembering the taunts of the New York Yankees in 1932, when they failed to give full shares to a couple of worthy players, the Cubs met in their clubhouse today and voted 28-12 shares of their 1935 World Series cut.

With Captain Woody English presiding, they gave full shares to 22 players, counting Manager Charlie Grimm as a player. Grimm did not attend the meeting. Coaches Roy Johnson and Johnny Corridon, Trainer Andy Lotshaw and Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis were voted full shares. A half share was voted to Clyde Shoun, rookie pitcher from Birmingham, who joined the club on August 7 and pitched a total of 12 2-3 innings.

Even the clubhouse and bat boys were cut in. Clubhouse boy, was voted $1,000; Gilly Hasbrook, the bat boy, was voted $500, and the assistant clubhouse boy given $500.

Johnny Gill, who just joined the team from Minneapolis, was voted $250.

Yanks Vote Share To Twenty-Seven. NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Division of the Yankees' share of World Series receipts as second-place club in the American league was announced today by Manager Joe McCarthy.

Besides McCarthy, the following will receive full shares: Johnnie Allen, Johnny Brown, Walter Brown, Ben Chapman, Earl Coombs, Frank Crosetti, Jim Doherty, Bill Dickey, Lou Gehrig, Joe Glenn, Lefty Gomez, Jesse Hill, Myril Hoar, Arndt Jorgens, Tony Lazzeri, Pat Malone, John Murphy, Red Wolfe, Charles Ruffing, Jack Saltzberger, George Selkirk, Vito Tamulis, Coaches Arthur Fletcher and Joe Sewell, Road Secretary Mark Roth and Trainer E. B. Painter.

Half-shares were allotted to Don Hater, Elmer Rys, and Clubhouse Attendant Fred Logan. Mascot James Maws was apportioned $300 and Groundkeeper Walter Owens $250.

Londos, Mauldin Feature Mat Card

Young Londres, sensational local wrestler, will be starred in a feature wrestling match Thursday night at the Avondale arena. He has been challenged by John Mauldin, for a no-time-limit, three-falls affair, and has been accepted by Londres. The card will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

In the semi-windup match, a one-hour affair, Honey Roy Hackney, the scissor king, of Dallas, Texas, will clash with Bill Falkner, of Avondale. According to promoters, Falkner is one of the most improved wrestlers seen in this section in some time. The opener will find Red Dugan, of Chattanooga, pitted against White Patterson, of Panthersville.

Reserved seats are now on sale at Dearborn 4236. The usual popular prices will prevail.

Dog Racing Begins As Scheduled, Oct. 3

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dog racing will begin, as scheduled, Thursday night, October 3, as a result of the settlement of differences that previously had threatened the opening of the meet at the Crescent Kennel Club.

A regulation announced by the Massachusetts racing commission requiring that all greyhound races in the state should be registered by the American Kennel Club brought such vigorous protests from racing dog owners that the ruling was rescinded.

With the revocation of the order, all danger of a "strike" of dog owners appeared to have passed.

SPRING TRAINING. SEBRING, Fla., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Newark Bears of the International League will train here next spring, club officials at Newark announced today. The Bears trained for two years at Clearwater.

No Cub Pitcher Holds World Series Triumph

Chicago Flingers Appear To Have Edge Over Tiger Moundsmen, However.

By Paul Mickelson.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The 21-in-a-row Chicago Cubs, one of the youngest pennant-winning teams in baseball history, with an average of but 26 years, haven't a pitcher who ever won a World Series game, but they figure to hold an edge over Mickey Cochrane's moundsmen.

Up until September 4, before the Cub hurlers touched off the great winning streak that won the flag, the Tiger pitchers, who then had eased up on their superb rush, stacked up as the better mound staff, but the comparative finishes to the wire have been great contrasts.

The work of Charlie Grimm's pitchers in the 21-game winning streak has been so sensational that his starting hurler was able to go the full route in 18 out of 21 engagements. Over the spectacular streak, only 24 pitchers were employed, holding the opposition to 48 runs, an average of 2.28 runs a contest. With a staff as "hot" as that, you can't deny that Cub "Big Four," Lon Varneke, Charlie Root, Bill Lee and Larry French, a margin over the Tiger "Big Four," Schoolboy Rowe, Elden Auker, Tom Bridges and Alvin Crowder.

SOME RECORD, EH! Before going into a man-to-man comparison of the rival pitchers, check the sensational records of the Cub hurlers over their winning streak:

PITCHER	w.	l.	r.	h.	innings
Lee	10	0	7	45	45
Varneke	4	0	8	38	38
Root	4	0	6	36	36
French	2	0	6	13	13
Carlton	1	0	1	4	9
Totals	21	0	48	159	159

Three right-handers, Varneke, Root and Lee, and one southpaw, French, will carry the pitching load for the Cubs in the series against a quartet of right-handers—Rowe, Auker, Bridges and Crowder. Both teams are well equipped with pitching reserves and probably will center the relief jobs on Southpaw Roy Henshaw, Cubs, and Roxie Lawson, the rookie who pitched shutouts in his first two American league games this season.

COMPARING THEM. Varneke and Auker: Varneke, a cool workman with a lightning fast ball, is the chief reliance of the Cub staff. A veteran man to beat. Auker, one of the big surprises of the season with his comeback, delivers a tricky underhand ball that undoubtedly will bother the Cubs. There isn't a pitcher or like him in the National league. Both had earned-run averages of 3.51 in the season just closed.

Root and Bridges: Tommy may be Cochrane's best bet. When he's right with his great curve, he's invincible. Root, pitching the same ball that made him famous years ago, may be soup for Hank Greenberg's home run bat. Root is a smart, fast-ball pitcher. Root's earned-run average for the season is 3.78 to Bridges' 4.86.

Lee and Rowe: Rowe, flashing his 1934 form again, has the edge if he stays "hot." He has everything when right. Lee throws a low, fast ball and is one of the fastest improving pitchers in baseball, a 6-foot-3 giant with a world of speed, the percentage pitching champion of the National league with 20 victories, six defeats and an earned-run average of 3.60 compared to 19, 13 and 3.95 for Rowe.

French and Crowder: Neither may be trusted with a starting assignment but both are fine workmen. French 17 and 10 Crowder's 16 and 10. French's earned-run average was 3.42; Crowder's 4.77.

'Bama Dove Season Is Split by Ruling

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The dove hunting season in three Alabama counties—Mobile, Baldwin and Washington—halted temporarily today, will be resumed November 1 and continue through January 30. Elsewhere in Alabama the season remained September 21 to January 5.

The Agriculture Department said the split season was approved by President Roosevelt, affecting several areas throughout the country. "To obtain better co-operation with state and local agencies in enforcement of federal game laws and, in some cases, to curtail dove shooting during state seasons on quail."

Florida hunters were required by the new regulations to refrain from shooting doves from October 1 to November 20. The second half of the season will be opened from November 20 through January 31.

In Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi, the first half of the divided season opened September 21. The new regulations provided fewer hunting days than formerly allowed and were expected by biological survey to aid dove conservation.

Petrels Are Ready For Opening Game

Coach Patrick believes his Oglethorpe Petrels are all set for their opening game of the season Friday night against Ozark College, in Clarksville, Ark.

Consequently he has ruled out all rough work and the squad, in perfect shape, will indulge only in kicking and passing drills and signal practice this week.

The Petrels leave here Wednesday night and arrive in Clarksville the next afternoon. They expect to hold a workout there under the lights that night.

TIGERS VS. CUBS. DETROIT, Sept. 30.—The gates to the sporting menagerie are now unlocked where you can step into the main zoo and take your pick between the Tigers and the Cubs.

In the zoo or in the jungle a tiger can always whip a cub, although western hunters will tell you a tiger would have all the trouble he cared to handle in tackling a grizzly bear.

And for the last three weeks these Cubs of Chicago have been a combination of grizzly bears, lions and king cobras as they started from nowhere to run out a string of 21 victorious contests and earned their right to a large World Series split, whether it will be the winner's or the loser's end.

Along that line, which will it be? Ten days ago there was a definite feeling that Mickey Cochrane's two-time winners would be too strong for either Cubs or Cardinals.

They were all set for the Cards this time and would probably have beaten them, with the two Deans worked into a creamy froth and no one else dependable in a pinch.

Before settling any argument, or closing out the debate abruptly, it is just as well to begin a little sizing up.

Team for Team. The Tigers have a slight edge in attack. The Cubs have no cluster that can quite match Greenberg, Gehring, Cochrane, Goslin and Fox.

This edge isn't overwhelming, but it has three or four hunting trips planned for the fall. I don't even know if he will attend the midwinter meeting of the club owners. I suppose so.

By FRANK MACMILLAN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—In spite of occasional selling gusts, the stock market held its own today with the aid of buying of motor and motor accessory stocks.

Liquidation fell mostly to the railroad group and was inspired by weakness in both the bonds and equities of New Haven, occasioned, brokers said, by nervousness over the road's ability to meet tomorrow's interest charges in full. There were no indications, however, during the session, that payment would be deferred.

At 5, the common stock of New Haven was down 1 3/8, while the preferred broke 2 points to 10. The company's convertible 6 percent 4-14s to 2 1/2. The railroad and the 4-12s gave up 4 and 2-3/4 points, respectively. Final prices for both the stocks and bonds were above their lows of the day.

Although the steel shares were mixed at times, most managed to add fractions to their price on the advance of the American Iron & Steel Institute's demand for the current week. The rate of 50.8 per cent of capacity compared with 48.9 per cent last week. This week's report, which included Bethlehem's, was noted for any week since it ended February 11, when output was also 50.8 per cent.

Irregularity prevailed in the bond market where rail loans were under pressure owing to unrest over the pound sterling was off 3-8 of a cent to $4.91 1/8. THE TARZAN TWINS No. 26

Proudly Zopinga drove his captives toward the gates, whence streamed a mob of hideous tribespeople. The children and adults—labbering excitedly. The teeth of the savages were filed to sharp points, but fortunately the boys did not know this was the mark of cannibals.

The children threw sticks and stones at the strangers, and each time a hit was scored, the savages laughed uproariously. Emboldened by the applause, an ugly boy rushed at Doc from the rear and swung a stick at his head with sufficient force to crush the white boy's skull. . . .

At this very moment, Tarzan himself was in danger. Under the stress of his anxious search for the boys, he was heedless of that vigilant caution which was his sole insurance against sudden death in the jungle. And now a great black panther stalked him on silent feet!

DAILY SHORT STORY

WEDDING DAY

A Marriage Took Place in Spite of the Most Vigorous Parental Objections.
 By FRANK KEITH.

Jane Curley looked at her father pleadingly and said, "But really dad, I love him. What if he hasn't any money? You didn't have any money when you married mother. And as far as marrying Jim Laffey is concerned—I can't hear to be in the same room with him."

John Curley stopped pacing the floor of his luxurious living room. Cigar in mouth, he looked at his daughter angrily for several moments. Finally he said, "Jane dear, be sensible. Marry for the future, child. Times have changed since your mother's marriage. This is an infatuation. It won't last. You're intrigued by the fact that the boy is an artist. The glamour will wear off."

Resolutely, her words close clipped and rapid, Jane answered, "Thanks for your opinion, dad, but I'm going to marry Bob Vance, and I'm going to marry him today." And without a backward glance, her head erect and face slightly flushed, she walked out of the room.

In the hall she hastily donned hat and coat and hurried to the porch. For a moment she stopped and looked speculatively at her car at the curb, at the wheel of which sat Bob. Her excited gaze took in his lean, tanned face, his broad shoulders, his smiling parted lips as she ran down the steps.

"Dad says no, Bob. But I say yes."

Practical Joke Results

In Gang Term for Victim

George Ernest, 23, of a Julian street address, is Atlanta's most unlucky person, he thinks. Yesterday he was sentenced to pay a fine of $17 or serve 30 days, all because of "an abrupt on his life."

Early Sunday morning Ernest ran into Grady hospital, screaming that he had been assaulted with hot creosote near the county creosote plant. He was covered with a black substance and portions of his clothes had been torn from him.

A bath soon removed the "hot creosote" and it was found to be nothing but kerosene and shoe blacking, the work of a practical joker. Ernest continued to scream that he was almost burning to death, police said.

Patrolman W. L. Owens escorted him to police headquarters where he was held on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Yesterday, lacking the $17, he was sent to the stockade.

NINE FOUND GUILTY OF $500,000 SWINDLE

DENVER, Col., Sept. 30.—(UP)—A federal district court jury tonight found guilty all nine defendants in mail fraud cases resulting from alleged "boiler room" operations of Schechtel & Co., Denver brokerage firm, which the government charged bilked investors of more than $500,000.

Schechtel & Co. was alleged to have fraudulently obtained more than half a million dollars from investors throughout the nation by illegal "stock rigging" and other backstreet tactics. The routine, as shown in the long trial was to persuade an investor to put money into a legitimate stock, and then, by a series of letters and telephone calls, pressure him to sell holdings and buy some stock recommended, and manipulated by the brokerage firm.

Hospital attaches, in order to waste no time, dispensed with the clinic examination and rushed him to a ward for emergency treatment. An interne happened to brush his finger on Ernest's shoulder and the black substance came off, revealing pink, healthy skin underneath.

A bath soon removed the "hot creosote" and it was found to be nothing but kerosene and shoe blacking, the work of a practical joker. Ernest continued to scream that he was almost burning to death, police said.

Patrolman W. L. Owens escorted him to police headquarters where he was held on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Yesterday, lacking the $17, he was sent to the stockade.

GERMANS OF MEMEL WIRE LEAGUE PROTEST

Nazis Say Slow Vote Violates Pact, But Are Accused of Delay.

MEMEL, Sept. 30.—(P)—German Memelers, angered by the prolonged voting in the territory's diet election, sent a telegram of protest to the Geneva delegations of Great Britain, France and Belgium, signatory powers to the Memel convention.

Despite this new dispute, the territory concluded its second day of voting on German and Lithuanian candidates for 20 langtag seats with only minor brawls reported.

Rumors, wholly without confirmation, were spread Adolf Hitler would make a surprise appearance at Tilsit, just across the Prussian frontier, tomorrow for an important political speech.

Still another day will be devoted this week-end to voting in the district of Juknaitis, where a polling station was wrecked in an election row Sunday. This meant still more delay in announcement of the results of the balloting.

The German protest, forwarded by the German leader, A. Meyer, a

ZACHRY TO HANDLE FULL ARROW LINE

Men's Wear Store To Retail
Famed Brand Shirts, Ties,
Underwear, Etc.

Announcement was made yesterday by A. L. Zachry, president of Zachry, Hart Schaffner & Marx distributors in Atlanta, of the appointment of his firm as a retail dealer for the entire line of Arrow men's wear, including the nationally known Arrow shirts, ties, underwear and handkerchiefs.

According to the colorful fall showing, now on display at their Peachtree street store, men's shirts like the new suits are in for a revolution of style.

Predominant among the new fall and winter fashions is the wide-spread collar, which was introduced by the Duke of Kent and is now made available in the well-known Arrow collar attached shirt. The button-down type attached collar runs second as a favorite, being especially adapted to wear with the rough chevrons and homespun suitings so popular this season.

Featured in whites, solid colors, stripes and patterns is the "miracle" of modern shirt making, the Arosel attached collar, designed by Arrow as a starchless collar that does not wrinkle and keeps a fresh, crisp look at all times. These new Arrow shirts are tailored in a variety of models for men of all tastes, but acclaimed the greatest step forward in modern design is the Mitoga model, which gives a form-fitting shirt that slopes at the shoulders, tapers with the arms and drapes at the waist.

Arrow shirts, ties, underwear and handkerchiefs are in addition to the Stetson hat, Nettleton shoe, Interwoven socks, Jayson shirt and Hickok belt, dealerships already enjoyed by Zachry.

U. S. Supreme Court Test on AAA Will Determine Need of New Taxes

Government Obligated To Pay Farmers $1,439,690,189 for Rental Payments and Removal of Crop Surpluses Under Agricultural Adjustment Act.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(P)—A supreme court decision expected before Christmas today stood as the criterion by which President Roosevelt assertedly will determine whether to hand the nation a new half-billion-dollar tax bill.

It was semi-officially calculated that this sum might be needed to finance existing AAA contracts for benefit payments to farmers, which Mr. Roosevelt said would be fulfilled even in the event of a ruling against processing taxes. But it was conceded the exact amount would vary, depending in a large degree on if and when the high court rules.

The government now is obtaining funds for these payments through processing and floor taxes. But these have been held unconstitutional in a two-to-one decision of a Boston circuit court of appeals.

A review of this ruling—in the Hoosac mills case—has been requested by the high tribunal by the government. The court, which reconvenes Monday, is expected to agree to the farm administration's desire for speedy procedure if it decides to take up the case on the constitutional questions involved.

President Roosevelt, while not mentioning the Hoosac mills case by name, said yesterday in his budget summary statement that if the attack on the Agricultural Adjustment Act "is sustained, we will have to face the problem of financing existing contracts for benefit payments out of some form of new taxes."

Some lawyers, however, have discussed the possibility that an adverse high court ruling might be so broad as to rule the payment of benefits, as well as processing taxes, invalid. In that event, the new taxes projected by the President presumably might not be necessary.

Under existing cotton, wheat, corn, hog, tobacco, sugar, peanut and rice contracts, the government has obligated itself for a total of $1,439,690,189 for rental and benefit payments and removal of crop surpluses.

As of July 1, the treasury had paid out $836,286,005, leaving a balance to be paid of $583,404,004. Officials estimated roughly that this would be reduced by about $150,000,000 by Christmas.

Meanwhile, however, a new wheat program is being inaugurated, entailing estimated benefit payments of slightly more than $100,000,000. Two-thirds of this would go to winter wheat growers, who would begin carrying out their part of the contracts this fall.

Some lawyers believe the government could cancel contracts on which performance had not been started, but the winter wheat growers would be entitled to their payments.

Should the decision be adverse to the government, this figure might be increased if processors were able to recover taxes already collected.

400,000 COAL MINERS TO END STRIKE TODAY

Walkout Will Continue in Several Districts Which Spurn Contract.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(P)—Approximately 400,000 soft coal miners go back to work tomorrow after the shortest strike in the industry's history.

An agreement between the United Mine Workers and most of the producers in the Appalachian fields last Friday to increase the miners' pay came after only five days of the walkout.

Three Appalachian districts had not signed the new agreement today and union miners in them were under orders to stay away from work until the new contracts were signed.

Eastern Tennessee refused to sign without a 40-cent differential on day rates under the rest of the southern Appalachian region. Virginia and Harlan county, Kentucky, producers dealing with the union then refused to sign until they were assured their scale would not be above Tennessee's.

The agreement expires April 1, 1937.

Charles F. Hosford Jr., chairman of the National Coal Commission, said funds for maintenance of the commission would be found. A question concerning the money had arisen after an appropriation for the board failed with the third deficiency bill.

Treasury Is Confident of Response In Raising of 5 Billion in 9 Months

Total To Be Borrowed $665,000,000 Less Than Estimated in January; Nearly 4 Billion Required To Retire
Maturing Government Securities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(P)—The job of borrowing $5,000,000,000 in the next nine months was handed the treasury today by President Roosevelt's new spending and tax collection schedules.

Asserting they expected no difficulty in finding lenders, officials were gratified nevertheless that increasing revenues and decreasing expenditures, outlined in the revised budget, made the total to be raised some $665,000,000 less than had been estimated in the original budget of last January.

Studying the new estimates presented by the chief executive, fiscal observers noted while the January budget called for total borrowings of $3,788,623,782 in new money to meet running expenses, the new summary set the figure at $3,123,728,722.

Since the fiscal year began on July 1, the treasury already has borrowed $1,726,000,000 leaving a remainder of $1,407,728,722 still to be raised. But in addition $3,766,000,000 must be borrowed to retire government securities which mature before the end of the fiscal year.

It was noted, too, while in January the President proposed $379,000,000 of the treasury's cash on hand be used to pay this year's expenses in addition to the sum then proposed to be borrowed, the new estimates cut the depletion of the cash balance to $158,000,000.

The revised figures, published today, estimated the year's deficit at $3,281,000,000 or some $1,237,000,000 less than the January estimates. Revenues were computed at $479,000,000 greater and expenditures at $768,000,000 less.

In addition, President Roosevelt hailed a rising business curve as forecasting a still decreasing deficit in the fiscal year 1937, declared the nation's tax structure "stronger than ever before in our history," and said no new taxes would be needed, unless the courts invalidate AAA's processing taxes.

To this, Henry H. Curran, president of the National Economy League, took exception today, asserting, "the fact is that the underlying tax structure of the government is weaker than it ever was before in our history."

He added: "In this very year, by the President's own statement, the tax structure is over $3,000,000,000 weaker than the amount of money necessary to pay the expenses of the government. The test of the strength of any tax structure is its ability to pay the bills."

"The first need of the country today is to balance the national budget in order to prevent inflation, repudiation and economic chaos. The time to balance the budget is now. It can and it must be done."

MANY NEW YORKERS SEEK NEW RESIDENCES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(P)—Thousands of New Yorkers changed their residences today, the first of Gotham's two big moving days.

Real estate men estimated that by tomorrow night, fully 45,000 families will have moved to new homes, between 15 and 20 per cent more than last year.

The demand for small apartments has been heavy, say the renting agents. Rents for the smaller places are up about 5 per cent, they report. Those for the larger apartments are approximately the same as last year.

BILLINGS TERMS SELF GOAT AT MOONEY TRIAL

Witness Refuses To Answer Questions, Blame Failing Memory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—(P)—Terming himself the "goat" of the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, Warren K. Billings heatedly refused today to answer some questions at Tom Mooney's habeas corpus hearing. Later he explained prison routine had dulled his memory.

Billings, convicted with Mooney, declined to answer certain questions concerning his employment prior to the bombing.

"After a clash in which he shouted: 'I'm merely the goat after this proceeding, the same as I always have been,' Billings stepped down from the stand and said to William Cleary, deputy attorney-general:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Cleary. I can't answer all your questions. I would like to be able to give you the minutest details of everything that happened. Prison, however, has ruined my memory. I had to concentrate on watch-making to keep from going insane."

PASTOR GIVES VIEWS ON SOCIAL SECURITY

Thorough approval of the recently enacted social security legislation was given in a letter written by the Rev. W. A. Duncan, pastor of the East Point First Baptist church, to President Roosevelt.

Pointing out that, in his opinion, the social security legislation would not be sufficient to bring the nation to its ultimate goal, the pastor praised the measures as a step in the right direction.

"We need a sane system of wealth distribution with the element of co-operation more in evidence and the element of competition less in evidence," the pastor wrote.
